Reds Fight Into Key City on Oder

Four-Mile Push Takes Nowe, 47 Miles From Danzig; Mass Forces

LONDON, Tuesday, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Russian troops in a four-mile advance have captured Nowe (Neuenburg), on the Vistula river 47 miles south of Danzig, and the Germans have reported that other Soviet forces have fought their way into the walled medieval town of Guben, key road hub 51 miles southeast of the Reich capital.

Enemy broadcasts said Nazi counterattacks later yesterday expelled the Russians from Guben and also recaptured the strongholds of Sommerfeld, Sorau and Sagan, on a 35-mile front southeast of Guben.

Moscow's communique did not mention that vital sector, where the First White Russian and First Ukraine armies under Marshals G. K. Zhukov and Ivan Konev were trying to weld their flanks securely in preparation for an all-out blow toward Berlin.

"MASSES OF MEN"

Berlin said that while Konev's troops were fighting their way abreast of Zhukov's men along the Oder bend southeast of the capital, Zhukov was pouring "masses of men" into the Berlin front, getting ready to launch a heavy blow from his bridgeheads across the Oder between Kuestrin and Fuerstenberg.

"The storm will break very soon," one German broadcast said.

Enemy broadcasts also said that Marshal Konev's southern wing had penetrated the area of Lauban, west bank Queis river town 12 miles east of Silesia's second city of Goerlitz, which is on the road to Dresden and 13 miles from the Saxony frontier where it joins the Bohemian border of Czechoslovakia.

Moscow said Russian troops on the Samland peninsula, northwest of Koenigsberg, had smashed enemy tank and infantry attacks seeking to break out of encircled Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital.

SLASH PRUSSIAN POCKET

outhwest of Koenigsberg other Soviet forces reduced the pocket held by the remnants of perhaps 20 German divisions to about 510 square miles with the capture of 11 localities on a looping 33-mile front from 22 to 33 miles below the capital.

Bitter mobile battles raged all

IWO FALL TO CUT B-29 LOSS IN HALF

GUAM, Feb. 19.—(AP)—American capture of Iowa Jima, 750 miles south of Tokyo, can be expected to cut Superfortresses losses in half and boost their bomb loads by providing a fueling stop. And in American hands Iwo will set up the shattering pace of all types of warfare on the Nipponese empire and its dying shipping lanes.

Senators Ax New Charter

By M. L. ST. JOHN.

The state senate, in the opinion of veteran capital observers, yesterday set about undoing a lot of the constructive work accomplished so far in rewriting the state's archaic constitution.

One of the things the constitution revision commission recommended strongly—and one which the house already has approved—was the establishment of several state boards by constitutional provision so that future governors and legislators could not hold the political ax over heads of board members and make them jump through administrative hoops.

But this declaration of independence for administrative boards took a killing blow when the senate yesterday adopted a provision to give future legislatures power to reduce the number of members of any board at any time and to change the rate of pay of members at will.

The amendment, proposed by Sen. Freeman, of Forsyth, would apply to the Public Service Commission, the Board of Pardons and Paroles, the Department of Corrections and the Game and Fish Commission.

There has been more administration pressure for the nonpolitical pardon and parole board than for the others. The whole movement for constitution boards grew out of the sorry plight the state university system found itself in when former Gov. Eugene Talmadge started changing membership of the board to get a few college officials fired.

Under the Freeman amendment, the proposed veterans' service board would be exempted from such legislative control, under an amendment offered by Sen. Stone, of Glenwood, and adopted by the upper house.

Observers pointed out that the legislature could direct the action of these boards—which supposed-

150 B-29s Pinpoint Tokyo Area

Strike as India-Based 'Forts' Batter Other Nip Mainland Points

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Tuesday, Feb. 20.—(Via Naval Radio)—(AP)—The aerial bombardment of Tokyo has been resumed with an unprecedented force of American Superfortresses battering the urban and industrial areas of Japan's war center.

The much-blasted city was hit yesterday by the B-29's in full strength close on the heels of the heavy pounding it underwent Friday and Saturday by waves of America's mighty Fifth Fleet carrier planes.

Indications were that upwards of 150 Superforts roared in on the Tokyo region yesterday afternoon from bases on Tinian and Saipan islands. The B-29's bombed by precision instruments through an overcast.

GOOD RESULTS

Good results were obtained in the raid, the War Department announced in Washington, with the Nakajima Musashina aircraft factory among the industrial targets attacked.

Maj. Gen. Curtis M. Le May, commanding the 21st Bomber Command, announced in a communique that fighter opposition was light, but antiaircraft fire heavy.

In addition to the ground damage inflicted on the Japanese, the B-29s shot down five enemy fighter planes, probably destroyed one and damaged 11 others. Three B-29s of the large force were lost to enemy action.

This eight B-29 raid on Tokyo came as about 60 other Superforts, flying from India, plastered Japanese installations at Kuala, Malay, almost 3,000 miles southwest of Nippon's capital. The India-based sky giants bombed railroad yards and repair shops with good results. All of the Kuala raiders returned safely.

Radio Tokyo, busy reporting on the American Marine invasion of Iwo Jima, took time out to say that approximately 100 Superforts hit the city. It claimed 10 were shot down and said damage was slight.

In an earlier broadcast Tokyo said between 70 and 80 of the B-29s bombed Honshu, Japan's main island, with industrial Nagoya as one of the targets.

The carrier plane attack on Tokyo Feb. 16 and 17, immobilizing enemy air strength in preparation for the Iwo invasion, was a "decisive victory," Nimitz declared in a communique late Sunday night. Weather "so adverse as to handicap enemy air operation" enabled the carrier force to approach Japan secretly, scoring "complete tactical surprise."

659 PLANES SMASHED

Nimitz gave these results of the two-day strike:

A total of 659 Japanese planes destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged on the first day—332 shot out of the air, 177 demolished on the ground and at least 150 probably destroyed or damaged. "An unknown number damaged on the second day."

One enemy escort carrier was bombed and set afire and left lying on her side at Yokohama; nine coastal vessels, one destroyer, two destroyer escorts and one cargo ship were sunk; 22 coastal vessels were damaged. Many smaller craft were destroyed or damaged.

Third Smashes Westwall On Seven-Mile Front

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Scotch infantry and tanks captured three-fourths of Goch today after storming from two directions into that Siegfried line city of 14,000 population on the wavering north flank of Germany's western defenses. On the center of the western front, the U. S. Third Army had slashed all the way through the three-mile-deep Siegfried line in the Eifel mountains on a seven-mile front and was driving against the river lines of the Rhenish-Prussian base for Bitburg.

Once more the U. S. Seventh Army to the south was battling in the Saar basin six miles southeast of the capital city of Saarbruecken. The Americans seized 1,000 prisoners in attacks which supreme headquarters said had limited objectives.

A lull persisted elsewhere on the front as the British and Canadian forces carried the brunt of the attack in the corridor between the Maas and Rhine rivers leading to the Ruhr and Rhineland.

The Scotch struck with such suddenness at Goch that they surprised the German commander and his staff in bed.

With fixed bayonets and supported by tanks, the infantry charged on through the rubble of Goch's ruined streets, clearing the enemy from the north side of the Niers river, and driving the beaten garrison from half of the southern part of the city.

The Germans had to be rooted from wrecked houses and mountains of debris, the product of intense artillery and aerial bombardment, which they turned into miniature forts.

The Scotch applied a pincers to Goch, one column driving down from the northeast, head-on into the city, bisected by the Niers river.

The second column, already across the Niers, knifed in at the back door, and this was the force that seized Col. Paul Matussek, the garrison commander, and his staff of a major and two lieutenants, in their nightshirts.

The final capture of Goch seemed near just one week after the Canadian First Army captured Kleve, a city of 20,000 seven miles to the north, which was the first sizable German city to fall into British-Canadian hands.

There was no indication that the Germans were trying to rush up reinforcements to restore a situation already apparently hopelessly lost, but instead they were hammering hard at both flanks.

The bloodiest fighting raged within a mile or two of Calcar, a second communication center seven miles northeast of Goch.

Oddly enough, floods from the Rhine lapping over most of Cal-

Oil-Bearing Sand Struck By Toombs County Drill

By W. A. JONES,
Constitution Correspondent.

VIDALIA, Ga., Feb. 19.—Gibson No. 1 test, located in Toombs county, has struck oil-bearing sand at a depth of 2,300 feet.

Every major oil producing organization in the south has a representative here, it was stated by T. R. Davis in charge of operations.

Thousands of visitors attracted to the drill site saw the oil slick and gas bubbles in the muck which is coming from the hole.

Engineer Davis has stopped the drill pending arrival from New Orleans on Wednesday of equipment to make a scientific log and furnish data as to the exact depth to set the piping.

This work is being done by the Sun Oil Company, which has been interested in seeking oil in Georgia for some time. Hearing that the scouts and lease men agree that the showing of mud from Gibson 1 looks sufficient to make a producing well, other lease men have increased their activities and lease agreements are advanced sharply in price.

Whether Gibson No. 1 means a heavy producing units or not, the development work at the Toombs county site is of importance to Georgians because of positive proof that oil-bearing sands lie beneath the surface and only need tapping.

Engineer Davis, who heads the Toombs county operations, gained his experience in California. He is a resident of Vidalia and located the site for his operations with his own electrical geophysical equipment.

He heads a syndicate known as the Tropic Oil & Gas Co., made up mainly of himself and associates from the Canal Zone. He has brought in other producing wells and the outfit he heads is a closed syndicate and has no stock to sell. Lease men who have accumulated considerable acreage in this immediate section and in other parts of south Georgia are in position to take handsome profits.

One lease man reportedly refused an offered $600,000 for his holdings, which is said to figure a half million profit on his speculation. Leases have been bringing from prices approximating recording fee to 50 cents per acre for the oil rights and have run to about 20 cents per acre average. Quotations today were spasmodic, but after the test to be made Wednesday may stabilize.

At least three other wells have been sunk in this immediate sec-

Landing Follows 72-Day Bombing

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Tuesday, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A flaming battle for Japan's front door—strategic Iwo Jima, only 750 miles south of Tokyo—raged on the tiny volcanic island today with hard-hitting American Marines fighting their way inland from beachheads against furious resistance.

In a broadcast from Guam, Robert McCormick, NBC war correspondent, said the Marines are so strongly established that the enemy has no hope of driving them off the island but "we will lose a fairly high percentage of men."

McCormick said the Nipponese are holed up in thousands of natural hideouts such as caves from which they are resisting fiercely, emerging at times into the open.

American commanders said initial progress was "satisfactory." The Marines speedily reached Iwo's important bomber airfield and penetrated its defenses.

FANATICAL FURY

Within two hours after the first barges had grated ashore yesterday morning, the Marines had pushed halfway up the dark sandy beaches of this rocky island that may prove tougher than Tarawa. First official reports said American casualties were "moderate."

The Marines struck in the wake of a terrific naval and air barrage, the most merciless and concentrated bombardment of the Pacific war.

The Japanese fought back with fanatical fury from strong inland positions. They used artillery, mortar, machinegun and rifle fire in their efforts to hold back the determined Leathernecks.

Japanese positions apparently were located in the northern sector of Iwo and in the steep sides and crater of the extinct Suribachi volcano at the southwestern tip of the sulphur-producing island which has an area of only eight square miles.

Suribachi, 546 feet high, commands the beachhead and the lowlands which afford only the scantiest cover to the Americans facing enemy defenses pouring forth mortar and artillery fire.

OPERATION PROCEEDS

This closest ground approach to Japan was made by the veteran Fourth Marine Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, and the new Fifth Marine Division. The latter, composed of veterans of Guadalcanal, Tulagi and Bougainville and new men, is commanded by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey.

In the preinvasion softening up, Iwo had been hit daily by heavy bombers, including B-29s on some raids, for 72 days. It also had been shelled by U. S. warships on 10 seperate missions.

Fleet Adm. Nimitz said Sunday

Fort Falls At Manila In Mop-Up

Corregidor Is Yielding As MacArthur's Forces Burn Japs From Cave

MANILA, Tuesday, Feb. 20.—Eleventh Airborne division troops have captured Fort William McKinley at the southern outskirts of Manila. Other Americans swarming over Corregidor fortress mopped up the Japanese defenders behind their own gun batteries and pursued enemy remnants on Bataan.

McKinley, seized Sunday, is one of Manila's two forts. The other is Fort Santiago, inside the old Intramuros (walled city), where the Japanese are making a bloody final stand, jeopardizing thousands of civilian lives.

Fort McKinley before the war was headquarters for the Philippine scouts and part of the Philippine division of the American Army. It has a large airfield and extensive military facilities.

Gen. MacArthur said in his communique today the "steady reduction" of the Japanese holed up in the Intramuros was continuing.

Japanese strongpoints on Corregidor were being eliminated by paratroopers and infantrymen who landed by air and sea on the island fortress Friday. Enemy defenders were being killed as they manned their fixed gun batteries.

The towns of Hagonoy and Taviz, on the northwest shore of large Laguna de Bay, southeast of Manila, also were taken.

Frequent patrol clashes were reported near Novaliches and Norzagaray, northeast of Manila, while in the Zambales mountain sector long Luzon's west-central coast the 40th division was clearing Japanese remnants.

Light naval craft operating in Manila bay, now open to U. S. Fleet units with the invasion of Corregidor, sank four barges.

"On Corregidor our troops con-

U. S. Officers Parachute On Panic-Plagued Berlin

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Neutral press dispatches said today that Berlin was packed with 5,000,000 refugees and the London Evening News said British, American and Russian officers had parachuted into Berlin to lead a revolt among foreign workers when the Red army reaches the city gates.

Radio Moscow, broadcasting for the free German committee, said tonight that hunger riots among refugees from the east have broken out in the Halle Merseburg district after authorities declared the refugees' ration cards invalid.

Another Moscow broadcast said reports from Sweden said a typhus epidemic was sweeping Berlin because of the influx of refugees and poor sanitation.

Swedes fleeing to Stockholm said the roads leading northward from Berlin were crowded with refugees, both from the capital and from eastern Germany. Some columns were 30 miles long. The refugees no longer cared where the road led as long as it was away from Berlin, the Swedes said.

Other travellers said the 5,000,000 living in Berlin's ruin face a food shortage which will become catastrophic when the Russians encircle the city, and fear a prolonged artillery bombardment they believe inevitable in view of Berlin's fortifications.

These travelers said there was a significant change in Berliners' attitude towards the Russians, which can be summed up with the words, "If the Russians were only already here." This attitude is not confined to communicate and habitual defeatists, but is widespread among Army officers and soldiers. Some said the barri-

TAKES HIS FIRE TO THE FIREMEN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Firemen in the No. 1 engine house have discovered that if they wait long enough, the fire will come to them.

Looking up from a card game, they saw a minor blaze riding right up to their front door. The car of Navy Lt. G. Z. Steward had caught fire, but he merely stepped harder on the gas and wheeled up to the engine house to have it doused.

Transport Brings Home 988 Western Front Casualties

By HELEN CAMP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The soldier in the faded blue-striped flannel pajamas leaned from an upper bunk of the troop transport and said, "I can't kick."

He laughed at his own joke and threw back the covers to show the stump of his left leg.

The man in the2 bunk next to him just lay and stared at the ceiling.

They were two of 988 western front battle casualties who arrived at the New York port of embarkation from Europe aboard three Army transports yesterday—men with splints and crutches, men with eye patches and casts, men with bandages and dangling sleeves, men with blank, staring eyes and empty faces.

The men were jubilant to be home. They stuck white-bound heads and pajama-clad shoulders out of portholes and called play-by-play descriptions of the landing to their bunk-ridden friends. And the night before the ship docked when they couldn't dance and back-clap from joy they took it out in pillow fights.

But tempering the jubilance was a kind of bewilderment.

Some of them wanted to talk. Sgt. Clyde Council of Carrabelle, Fla., wanted to tell how he had lain for seven and a half hours under German shellfire with a leg ripped open by a land mine, waiting for medical aid. Boyish Pfc. John E. Thomas, of Indianapolis, wanted to explain why Europe still was living in the dark ages and America was the only place in the world.

They wanted you to look at the jagged red scars that twisted their arms and legs and faces. And they seemed to watch you looking and to try to catch even the slightest sign of revulsion or pity.

Pvt. J. I. Cummings, of Valley Mills, Texas, who had nine body wounds and was completely bandaged from the waist down looked up with soft, questioning eyes and said, "I'll be all right." And you knew you was not reassuring you so much as himself.

The mental patients filed off the ship supported or led by medical corps attendants. The face of one Negro twitched uncontrollably, a tall sergeant laughed to himself, but most stared straight ahead with blank, unseeing eyes.

One man kept shaking his head and repeating over and over as though he were mimicking another voice, "Poor guy, he's in bad shape. Poor guy, he's in bad shape."

The casualties were divided into four groups—troop class, who could care for themselves; ambulatory, who could walk; litter pa-

'Terribly Bloody' Fight On Iwo, Writer Says

By WILLIAM F. TYREE.

ABOARD A NAVY LIBERATOR OVER IWO JIMA, Feb. 19.—(UP)—After nearly four hours under fire on one of the toughest beachheads ever wrested from the Japanese, our Marines tonight held the southern end of the triangular number one air field on Iwo Jima, a rugged little island 750 miles southeast of Tokyo.

From this Liberator bomber only 1,000 feet above the struggling leathernecks, I watched them this afternoon plunge inland from the hotly-contested Chindoriga Hara beach and reach the edge of the airfield. This evening the airfield is no man's land, with Marines and Japs stalking each other over Volcanic Rock.

Behind the terrific bombardment of battleships, cruisers and destroyers and a final barrage of thousands of rockets launched from specially equipped smaller craft, the Marines stormed up the beach to meet the strong Jap garrison—a picked garrison to hold this doorstep outpost of their empire.

Although our fleet and transports rode serenely at anchor or steamed in battle procession around the island without interference, the fight on the beach can only be described — prosaically enough—as terribly bloody.

From what I saw I believe it is possible the Japs have 15,000 or more troops dug in on Iwo. The Fourth and Fifth Marine Divisions struggled along the beach easily in the initial phase of the operation, but the cagey Japs then opened up with artillery and mortars with telling effect.

About four hours were spent on the beachhead consolidating it for further attacks. Then some leatherneck units skirted the narrow neck of land near the 546-foot crater of Mount Suribachi and others reached the edge of the airstrip.

That's where they were—under

BOYS' HIGH'S PROF. AYCOCK QUITS AFTER CHARGES BY FATHER OF BOY, 11

Warren C. Aycock has resigned, effective immediately, his post as teacher of mathematics at Boys' High school following an investigation of charges that he slapped an 11-year-old schoolboy, Gordon Smith.

Roy W. Davis, assistant school superintendent in charge of high schools, announced Aycock's resignation yesterday following a conference with the instructor. Aycock is charged with having attacked young Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith, of 255 Carter avenue, S. E., after the youth and a playmate, Winston Krieger, called each other a "mole." "Mole" is a name applied to Aycock by high school students.

Davis said he had no information except that Aycock had decided to relinquish his teaching post in Atlanta.

Last Friday Aycock was committed to the city court of DeKalb county under a $100 bond charging him with assaulting a minor as the outgrowth of the incident. Charges against Aycock were brought by the father of the boy, and Aycock is slated to answer them at the March term of court.

'YOU'LL BE 'SO-O-O-O-RY!'

Georgia Recruits Prove WAC Welcome Wrong

By CAROLYN CARTER,
Constitution Staff Writer.

FT. OGLETHORPE, Ga., Feb. 19.—When new WAC recruits arrive here, women with a few hours' military service welcome them with: "You'll be so-o-o-o-ry!" Georgia's 21 hospital technicians were duly initiated but after a few days in camp they, too, quipped at Ohio enlistees—"You'll be so-o-o-o-ry!"

It's a laughing matter, rather than a disillusioning sentence, for these women know what they were "getting into," and every one is as keen about it as an infantryman awaiting his first hand-to-hand engagement. For the girls, real "action" follows their basic training here and begins when they arrive at one of the seven general hospitals in the Fourth Service Command.

To show how serious the Georgia WACS are about this training, Juanita B. Wallace, 22, of 803 Kennedy street, N. W., Atlanta, cut her long, blond, curly hair (hair which she might have sold during the wartime demand), and had a permanent wave. Officers, looking at her civilian pictures, said she should have saved it and used a "rat." Other enlisted personnel commented such hair would have kept them in pleated skirts and sweaters.

EYES GOLD BAR

Juanita says a radio announcer recruited her. He asked: "Why don't you join?" So, she did.

She has her eyes on gold bars and if things go well after basic training she plans to apply for Officer Candidate School. To the Women's Army, that's "O. C. School" instead of "O. C. S."

Juanita worked at Bell bomber plant and planned to "sign up" several months ago, but waited for her friend, Louise Hogan, to become 20 so she, too, could enlist. Louise lives at 808 Essie avenue, S. E., Atlanta. She was 20 Feb. 16, entered service the next day. They worked together at Bell. Louise's husband is with the Navy in the South Pacific.

Minnie A. Stratton, 21, of Townsend, Tenn., is the only out-of-stater in the Georgia group. She was in the Cadet Nurse Corps at Georgia Baptist hospital for about a year. And has a Navy beau.

GLAMOR GIRL

Betty L. Pirkle, 22, is one of the group's glamor girls, though she probably would deny it. Betty has wavy, jet hair, and doesn't discuss her first few hours in the women's army. She wanted a last night at her home in Griffin, told the recruiting officer she would board a bus in time to make the morning train leaving Atlanta. The Army sent a car to Jonesboro to meet her, gave her a swift swing through the traffic to the Union station and she puffed into the WAC car on time by a split second.

Jewell B. Smith, 20, of Thomaston, is one woman with a deep-seated purpose for joining. Her husband, an infantryman, was killed in action. She wanted to enlist when he went overseas but he said as long as he was all right he wanted her to stay at home. "But if anything should happen . . ." Jewell remembered that remark when she was notified of his death, so she wanted to become a WAC, but primarily she wanted to do something for the boys who are hurt and able to come home.

SHE CAN "TAKE IT"

Jewel was "raised" in the country and says a girl off the farm can "take it." The marching and training of basic won't bother her. She has her heart set on helping some Purple Hearter.

The Georgia platoon was confident drilling would be a snap. After all, hadn't the recruiting officer told them how? And they discussed it all the way on the train. They weren't going to be green about marching, and that was about all there was to it.

All—until they fell out of a big Army truck and headed for a brief physical with other members of their company.

"Fall in, in four squads," the small sergeant with a boyish bob "suggested."

The Georgia women had it. They lined up four abreast.

"Four squads," the sergeant urged.

Later they found this means seven abreast, four deep.

SENATORS

ly were given constitutional protection from politics—by exercising the power to fire or cut the pay of board members who did not do its will.

Sen. Freeman said it would keep the bureaus answerable to the general assembly.

"By keeping the ax of uncertainty over their heads, we could prevent any board members from becoming obstreperous," Freeman observed.

Freeman said the boards are in their experimental stages and should not be frozen too securely into the constitution until experience shows how many members are needed and what their pay should be.

UNPAID BOARDS

The Game and Fish Commission includes 10 members; the proposed prison board would have three members, under senate plan, or five members under the house plan. The members of neither of these boards are paid.

There are five public service commissioners, paid $5,000 each, and three parole board members receiving $5,000 each. The veterans' board, exempted from this control, would have either five or seven members who would serve without pay. Public service commissioners are elective, while other boards are appointive.

The senate has voted to abolish the Game and Fish Commission from the constitution and to cut the terms of Public Service Commission members from six to four years.

FOR WOMEN JURORS

The senate voted to require women to serve on juries in unanimous action taken yesterday afternoon.

The constitution redrafers and the house had merely said that the legislature could, if it saw fit, have women serve on juries. Sen. Sabados, of Albany, was author of the mandatory provision.

Homesteads would continue to be exempted from school taxes under another amendment approved by the senate. After much debate a move which would subject homesteads to school taxation was defeated. The redrafters and the house had voted to permit schools to collect taxes from homesteads, which are exempted up to a valuation of $2,000 on other forms of taxation.

The senate also beat an effort to subject the present $300 personal property exemption to school taxation.

Sen. Dixon Smith, of Columbus, led the fight to keep the $2,000 homestead exemption intact, while Senator Sebados argued that the schools need the money.

JUDGES RAISED $1,000

The senate followed the house in raising judges' salaries $1,000 after some had tried to make the raise $2,000 and others had sought to hold it at the present rate of $7,000 for higher court judges and $6,000 for superior court judges.

To speed consideration of the constitution, which seemed to be bogging down, Sen. Caldwell, of LaGrange, asked unanimous consent to limit debate to 10 minutes. Sen. G. Y. Harrell, of Lumpkin, who is making a record for debating paragraphs of the proposed document, objected to limitation. The matter was referred to the rules committee.

ANTI-'BUG' BILL PASSED

Striking at the "bug" racket, the house passed a bill declaring all vehicles used in carrying any gambling equipment to be contraband. The measure—introduced by the Fulton and DeKalb delegation—was sent to the senate.

By a vote of 104 to 7, the house approved a measure levying a $5 tax on each "outlet" for the sale of fresh-water fish. Submitted by Rep. McNall, of Chatham, it would have the effect of requiring a chain grocery store concern to pay the tax for each of its stores in a county.

A resolution submitted by Rep. Barwick, of Grady, and passed by the house, requested the Georgia Budget Commission to increase funds available to the Public Welfare Department "to such an amount as will enable us to get our full share of federal money."

A number of representatives introduced a measure to provide that livestock and swine owned by the state may be sold at public auction to Georgia farmers only after being advertised for sale in a newspaper for 10 days. The bill further provides that state-owned livestock and swine not sold shall be slaughtered for use by state institutions.

The house passed a bill providing that honorably discharged veterans ow World War II may attend public schools of Georgia regardless of age. It authorizes the State Board of Education to determine whether tuition would be charged.

Another measure passed by the house would authorize the State Game and Fish Commission to delegate to the department's director what authority he might have. At present the director acts for the commission when it is not in session.

DESPERATE APARTMENT HUNTERS SCAN OBITUARIES FOR PROSPECTIVE HOUSING

Despite the fact that real estate dealers' primary purpose is to rent apartments, Atlanta dealers look with disgust upon those who capitalize on other people's misfortune to try and obtain apartments, a prominent Atlanta real estate man has declared.

Citing a case in which one tenant died and by 10 a. m. the next day, this real estate dealer had received five calls from people seeking the deceased's apartment, and the practice is becoming more widespread.

By scanning newspaper obituary columns, many Atlantans and newcomers to the city ascertain what apartments may soon be vacant. One dealer said he had received complaints from one of his tenants who said he had received several calls asking apartment be reserved even before the stricken lessee died.

"Regarless of how desperate the plight of someone seeking housing may be, such practice is most distasteful to owners and agents of housing property, to say nothing of the unintentional injustices to bereaved families and relatives. Furthermore, it virtually insured the rejection of every such applicant, not only for these possible vacancies, but for any others in the future," the real estate man declared.

Curfew To Shut Night Spots At 12 Is Ordered by Byrnes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—War Mobilization Director Byrnes today asked that "all places of entertainment" close by midnight each day beginning Feb. 26.

His action will be backed up by the authority of the War Manpower Commission to deny employment ceilings to any places violating it.

Byrnes said his purpose "is primarily to save coal consumed in heating and in providing electricity. But it will also be helpful in the fields of transportation, manpower and in other ways."

Places of entertainment were defined as all night clubs, sport arenas, theaters, dance halls, road houses, saloons, bars, "and other similar enterprises, whether public or private, excluding restaurants engaged exclusively in serving food."

WILL DENY CEILINGS

Closing at midnight means that patrons shall leave in time to permit full closing by that time, the Byrnes announcement said.

"The War Manpower Commission will be requested to deny ceilings to any places violating this request," the statement said.

It added:

"Moreover, the War Production Board, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration are being requested to use their powers to the full extent consistent with the law in assisting the War Manpower Commission."

In announcing the broad step, Byrnes said:

"Conservation measures previously taken by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, including reduction of travel, the elimination of the use of electricity in outdoor advertising, the lowering of temperatures in government buildings and an appeal to the public to lower temperatures in homes do not appear to suffice in view of the coal shortage.

"I am advised by the War Production Board that the industrial coal stocks on hand are inadequate.

"Unfavorable weather conditions and possible spring floods render the coal situation even more serious than a few weeks ago.

"The closing of places of entertainment at midnight should impose no real hardships, and I am convinced our people at home will gladly comply with this request in view of the fact that in the period just ahead of us those in the armed services will be making greater sacrifices than ever before."

The Byrnes statement said he felt sure "that state and local officials would co-operate wholeheartedly with the federal government in carrying out this objective and in bringing any violations to the attention of the proper authorities."

2 Sergeants Held in Death OfAugustaBoy

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—Two Robins Field (Macon, Ga.) Army sergeants are being held by local police as material witnesses in the death of Willie Neal Murphy, 13, of 827 Seventh street, who was found dead in a room occupied by the soldiers late Sunday night.

The youth, the son of Mrs. Leona Beverly Murphy, was discovered dead on a couch in the room by an ambulance driver who had been called to the apartments where the room is located. Dr. D. M. Silver, coroner's physician, said today that he was conducting an autopsy to determine death.

The soldiers in custody of the police are S. Sgts. Foster McGee and Oliver R. Huff. City detectives of the homicide squad questioned the men early this morning but did not divulge results. The boy's mother is divorced and the boy himself has been before juvenile authorities on several occasions.

The two soldiers had occupied a room on the third floor of the apartment building Saturday night and yesterday, police said.

Police said that Sgt. Huff arrived at the room late last night and when he noticed the body lying stretched out on the couch he immediately went to the youth's mother. She telephoned for an ambulance. Sgt. McGee was in the room with the dead boy when police arrived. He claims to have been drinking and was asleep when Huff returned with the boy's mother. Officers found the boy on the couch with blood issuing from his nose and the body was swollen to some extent. Officials believe the boy to have been dead at least two hours before the call for the ambulance was made.

Coroner R. Allen Elliott said late today an investigation is being made.

This is your invitation to attend a dramatic all-Vera Maxwell Show with Miss Maxwell as guest-conductor and her Spring collection of original designs on the runway. We consider it an honor to present Vera Maxwell to Atlanta. She ranks with top-flight American designers and was the first to break away from the tradition of stiffly tailored tweeds. She studied under Pavlova and was a member of the Metropolitan Ballet at sixteen. This training is eloquent in the movement and freedom of her fashions. Look forward to a memorable afternoon at Davison's. Miss Maxwell is not only a brilliant designer but a charming person who looks like a model for her own fashions.

House Approves Shift of Pike To 22d Senatorial District

By LORRAINE NELSON.

A bill transferring Pike county from the 22d senatorial district to the 36th district was cleared in the house by a vote of 132 to 0, after Rep. Arnall, of Coweta, agreed to give Pike county the first right to a senator if the shift is approved in the upper house.

Rep. Strickland, of Pike, protested passage of the bill when it came up for consideration yesterday. Pike, at present one of the four counties—others are Monroe, Lamar and Bibb—in the twenty-second district, "has been waiting six years to get a senator and the assembly should not make it wait another six years," Strickland said. His county, under original provisions of the bill, would be placed in the thirty-sixth district with Coweta and Meriwether counties and would wait in line after Coweta to furnish a senator.

ARNALL'S OFFER

Arnall, however, said his county was willing to take second precedence in the district, if Pike is transferred to it. Rep. Bloodworth, of Bibb, one of the sponsors, said the measure would tend to equalize representation in the assembly and give Bibb county one of the most populous in the state, a right to a senator every six years instead of eight years.

Counties in a district usually rotate for the right to furnish the senator.

Earlier in the day House Speaker Roy V. Harris, of Richmond, offered a bill that would empower the judge of the municipal court of Augusta to appoint the court sheriff, clerk and all deputies of both offices. "These officers ought to be appointive because they don't get salaries big enough to compensate for the expenses of an election," Harris said. Speaker Harris and the other Richmond county delegates also introduced a bill to permit the solicitor of the Richmond city court to appoint a clerk at a salary of $75 a month.

The Muscogee delegation introduced bills to provide for the establishment of a retirement system for all Muscogee county employes and to authorize the county to acquire or construct public sewers and to collect fees for sewer services. The delegation said the county wanted to purchase about half a million dollars' worth of new sewerage works constructed by the federal government in the northern part of the county and to finance the purchase through the issuance of revenue certificates.

The house spent the entire morning and a portion of the afternoon session passing local bills—more than 40 in all—while the senate passed another ten.

In the lower chamber these senate bills won final passage and were sent to the Governor:

To permit Hogansville to adopt a city manager form of government, and to provide for a popular referendum on the granting, renewal or extension of a public utility franchise in the city of Eastman.

PASSED BY SENATE

The following house bills were swept through the senate and readied for Gov. Arnall's indorsement:

To authorize Macon to establish trust funds for postwar public works.

To fix the compensation of members of the Macon city tax appeals board at $200 a year and to permit city tax assessors to be otherwise employed by the city; to extend the Bibb county commission's authority to levy a tax on businesses operating in the county and to make the organ for legal advertisements by the city the same as that designated by the county.

To permit the city of Hogansville to adopt a city manager form of government; and to extend the term of the present Lee county commissioners for another two years to coincide with the regular election of other county officials.

The following bills were cleared in the house:

To permit the Appling county commissioners to pay the salary of the Baxley city court judge in quarterly sums instead of by the month.

To incorporate the town of Amoskeag in the county of Dodge.

BANKS PAY INCREASE.

To pay the chairman of the Banks county commission $50 a month instead of $444 a year, and the members $37.50 a month instead of $300 a year.

To change the time for electing the mayor and council members of Willacoochee; to extend the Ludowici city limits.

To require an audit of the books of Johnson county officials.

To provide the mayor of Columbus with the sum of $100 a month in addition to his annual $1,200 salary as a member of the city commission.

To change the date of the Democratic primary for the nomination of Columbus city officials from the third Saturday to the third Wednesday in October.

To renew for another five years the Columbus commission's authority to levy a nine-mill ad valorem tax for ordinary current expenses.

To transfer the Jarratt Spring Lot in Milledgeville to the Regents of the University System of Georgia.

To provide for a second primary in Chattooga county elections when no candidate in the first primary receives a majority of the votes cast.

ACCIDENT AFTERMATH

To authorize the state to pay $223 to T. W. Erickson, whose wife was involved in an accident with a State Patrol car in Savannah on Sept. 11, 1943.

To authorize the state to appropriate to A. S. Roach $472 out of funds allotted the State Board of Barber and Hairdresser Examiners in payment of a judgment affirmed by the state supreme court.

To pay the Gwinnett county sheriff a salary of $100 a month in addition to fees allowed.

To provide for holding the Taylor county superior court on the first and second Mondays of January and July, and the Harris county superior court on the third and fourth Mondays of January and July.

To pay the Jones county sheriff a salary of $150 a month in addition to present fees allowed. To pay the Dawson county sheriff $30 a month in addition to fees. To fix the Muscogee county coroner's fee for holding inquests at $15. To fix the fee for jurors at the Muscogee coroner's inquest at $2. To provide that the Cherokee county sheriff shall be paid costs and fees for handling prisoners convicted of misdemeanors upon delivery of those prisoners to the county or state work camps.

WARREN CLERK DEPUTY

To provide a deputy to the Warren county clerk at a salary of $30 a month.

To provide four terms a year for the Hancock superior court.

A constitutional amendment to permit counties in the Brunswick judicial circuit to pay the judges of the circuit $100 a month in addition to his state-paid salary. To provide for the appointment of a deputy sheriff in Dodge county to make investigations concerning the collection and payment of taxes due the county.

To provide a salary of $100 a month for the Bleckley county sheriff in addition to present fee compensation.

To fix the salary of the official reporter of the Oconee judicial circuit to $200 a month for reporting criminal cases and to continue the fees now allowed for reporting civil cases and to increase the fee for filing divorce applications in Cherokee county from $6 to $10.

The senate passed and sent the following house bills to the governor:

To extend the city limits of Summerville.

To change the time of electing the Willacoochee mayor and council, and to prohibit the mayor of Thomaston from serving also on the Upson county commission.

BILLS OFFERED

Bills offered for a first reading in the house yesterday proposed the following legislation:

SUMTER COUNTY—To abolish the fee system for the county coroner and put him on a salary of $25 a month, by Reps. Gammage and Jennings, of Sumter.

CATOOSA COUNTY—To take White Oak mountain out of the Ringgold city limits and to exempt farm land and all farm implements located and used within the Ringgold limits from city taxes, by Rep. Evitt, of Catoosa.

BIBB COUNTY—To permit polling places in Macon to remain open between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m.; another bill to permit the county commission to levy a tax for the purpose of establishing a pension-retirement system for county employes; by Reps. Wilson, Bloodworth and Weaver, of Bibb.

GRADY COUNTY—To authorize the county to pay the premiums and costs on the official bond of the county sheriff, by Rep. Barwick, of Grady.

EFFINGHAM COUNTY—To increase the salary of the judge of the city court of Springfield from $900 to $1,200 a year, by Rep. Guyton, of Effingham.

In the senate, Sen. Walker, of the 45th district, offered a bill to create a joint Airport Commission for the city of Fitzgerald and Ben Hill county.

"Herd up" that used stove, heater, fur coat, radio, gun, etc., and "corral" cash by advertising them in the Want Ads of The Constitution.

ATTACKS ON TWO EUROPEAN FRONTS—On the western front yesterday, the Allies stormed into Goch, key to Ruhr basin approaches, inched nearer Bitburg, and drove a short distance into Germany in the Saarbruecken area. On the east, Grudziadz has been encircled by the Russians, who are battling in besieged Poznan and Breslau. Other Soviet troops were pushing westward in thrusts (open arrows) possibly aimed at Dresden and a flanking attack on Berlin.

car's highways had robbed the town of most of its tactical importance, making it comparable to some of the villages along the Rhine which the enemy ceded without a struggle.

But the Germans apparently were ordered to defend it to the death, and the forest of Moyland was strewn with the bodies of Allied and German infantry.

The forest extending almost to the edge of Calcar had been turned into a bulwark as formidable as the Reichwald before Kleve, and British and Canadians now had fought almost to its southern edge.

But they had been forced to pay for these gains, just as the Scotch paid when they drove head-on into Goch across its northeastern ramparts through a storm of machinegun and mortar fire.

BENT ON HOLDING OUT

The Canadians and British also still were held up at the outskirts of the town of Moyland, two miles northwest of Calcar, by an enemy who seemed bent on holding it as a buffer despite the loss of near-by strategic heights.

Scotch troops on the south flank five miles southwest of Goch were locked in heavy fighting for the Dutch village of Kastelblijenbeek.

The Germans bent on holding the Maas river line were dug in strongly here, a mile and a half east of the Maas village of Afferden, which the Scotch captured yesterday.

The Germans were astride the main Maas valley highway leading along the river 19 miles southward to their stronghold at Venlo, and their right flank was protected by the marshes.

The gains of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army along a 32-mile front farther south were only a half mile to a mile, but they kept up the pressure on a large number of German troops, and with artillery the Americans were cutting down the enemy in front of them.

50 PER CENT CASUALTIES

A front report said some German units suffered casualties as high as 50 per cent, while American losses were described as light.

And yet the Germans had been unable to keep the fifth, 76th and 80th Infantry Divisions from ripping the westwall apart in the Echternach area south of Bitburg.

The Fifth Infantry, now six miles inside Germany, held three miles of the west bank of the Pruem, most troublesome of the rivers in the western Eifels.

Doughboys won high ground overlooking Holsthum, on the Pruem where it joins the Enz river seven and a half miles southwest of Bitburg.

To the north, part of the Fifth Division already had crossed the Enz seven miles from Bitburg, but the Pruem still was ahead of the Americans. The Pruem has nowhere been crossed on this sector.

Application for priorities will be filed immediately and work will begin on the old gymnasium which will be renovated for a lunchroom.

HIS JOKE WASN'T SO VERY FUNNY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Hugh Larimer feels the citizens of Oklahoma City didn't react correctly to his little gag.

Larimer dressed in part of a Nazi officer's uniform he had received from a son-in-law overseas and walked into a drugstore.

A half dozen women employes armed with bottles of hand lotion closed in ready to bop him. Then a customer engaged him in conversation until police arrived.

After a trip to police headquarters where a room full of officers and several FBI agents had to be convinced of his innocence, Larimer departed muttering, "They sure don't take a joke very well."

cades were a "pure party affair," without military value.

Reports reaching Berlin from Russian-occupied east Germany tend to increase sympathy for the Russians and diminish fear, the travelers reported. In some instances Russian tank commanders were said to have helped the German refugees on the road with food and shelter. Another argument was that "the Russians never bombed us like the British and Americans."

Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz in a speech broadcast by German radio appealed to German youth to show unconditional loyalty to Adolf Hitler and said "we in the German navy, especially in the near future, will need brave young people . . . who with small means can achieve much against the enemy."

The American broadcasting station in Europe heard by FCC said all the hotels and inns in Upper Bavaria have been seized as shelters for Nazi party members, stormtroopers and their families.

Red Cross War Fund Is Sought in Upson

THOMASTON, Ga., Feb. 19.—The Thomaston Merchants' Association will begin the Red Cross war fund drive among the business houses this week to raise its share of the quota of $10,500.

The business districts have been divided into small areas and a committee appointed for each area. These committees will begin solicitation immediately.

The major gifts committee under the direction of Victor Thurston and the residential drive under the direction of Mrs. Mary Chatfield will begin later. Rural Upson county has been divided into districts and committees appointed for each district by Rural Chairman Gordon Holstun, and these committees are expected to begin work at once.

A. Corry, chairman of the Barnesville chapter. The meeting will be attended by chairmen of committees recently appointed by Elijah Wisebram, chairman of the War Fund drive in Lamar county.

EATONTON, Ga., Feb. 19.—Announcement is made of the change in management of the local bus station. After 20 years as local bus agent P. C. Rossee is giving up the business, it was announced. Southeastern Stages and Southern Stages' officials announced that the station would be moved to its new location, to the Greyhound service station, and that N. D. Horton would be the new manager.

JEFFERSON, Ga., Feb. 19.—Pittman Carter, director of the Farm Bureau for the ninth congressional district, with a large number of members from the Jackson county chapter, attended the district meeting in Gainesville last week. along the 62-mile front between Guben and Lauban, the Germans said, and they also told of Red Army attempts to break through to Cottbus, on the Spree river 21 miles southwest of embattled Guben. The Spree, which flows into Berlin, is the last natural defense line for the capital, along with the lakes on the southeastern approaches to Berlin. Cottbus is only 47 miles from greater Berlin.

LAUBAN UNDER FIRE

Lauban was under Soviet artillery fire "but is still in German hands," the enemy said. The Nazi high command also said that Russian forces had reached the area southeast of Lauban, suggesting that the Soviets might have cut the trunk railway linking Dresden, Saxon capital, with Moravska-Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third city in Moravia. Lauban itself is only nine miles from the Czechoslovakian frontier, and 75 miles northeast of Prague, the capital.

Moscow dispatches said the enemy was throwing in heavy reinforcements in an effort to keep the Russians out of Guben and Cottbus, capture of which would outflank Berlin's eastern defenses bases on the fortress towns of Fuerstenberg, Frankfurt and Kuestrin. Violent air battles also were being fought over this section of Brandenburg province.

Guben, a small manufacturing town on the east bank of the lower Neisse river near its confluence with the Oder, is only 13 miles south of Fuerstenberg, under attack by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army. It is linked by a direct highway and railway with Fuerstenberg, Frankfurt and Kuestrin.

"ACUTE TENSION"

Berlin reported an atmosphere of "acute tension" along Zhukov's front facing the Axis capital, and said the ace Russian commander was massing tremendous supplies of men and material for the impending grand scale assault toward Berlin. German propagandists said this coming struggle would be "final and decisive."

Two Candidates Seek Putnam County Post

EATONTON, Ga., Feb. 19.—Former Chairman N. D. Horton has announced his candidacy for re-election to the office of chairman of the board of county commissioners. His opponent, Mayor John L. Adams, had announced the previous week.

The special election which will be held Feb. 27 was called by the Putnam county ordinary to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frank A. Dennis on Dec. 31, one day before he was to take office on Jan. 1, he having defeated Horton in the primary last spring. The final tabulation of votes was so close that Horton called for a recount when Dennis won by 10 votes.

No other candidates have announced.

1,600 U. S. Planes Rock Scattered Reich Targets

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A massive swarm of 1,600 U. S. Eighth Air Force planes, fanning out over western Germany in 100-bomber "wolf packs," blasted at least a dozen scattered transportation and industrial targets today in the most widespread attacks since last summer.

Targets of the more than 1,100 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 500 fighters included the large railway yards at Muenster, Osnabrueck, Rheine and Siegen and industrial objectives mainly in the Ruhr. They dropped 3,300 tons of bombs and incendiaries.

Italy-based American Fortresses and Liberators bombed railyards at Vienna, Graz and Klagenfurt in Austria and naval installations at Pola and Fiume along the Adriatic coast. It was the sixth straight day of air assaults from the west and the seventh from Italian bases.

The German radio said other Allied bombers, probably an RAF team, had streamed into the Reich in the wake of the Britain-based American planes.

The railyards hit by the Eighth Air Force armada are main links in the transportation chain feeding German reinforcements to the area in which the Canadian First is attacking. All the targets were blanketed by clouds and the bombs were dropped by "electric eye" aiming.

Unable to stir up German air force opposition the escorting Mustangs and Thunderbolts dipped to tree-top level for strafing runs. One squadron of 18 Mustangs shot up 40 locomotives and 40 oil cars near Hannover, while others pumped 50-caliber bullets into 18 locomotives and five freight cars south of Brunswick.

The daylight assaults followed three separate raids during the night by groups of RAF Mosquitoes which hurled two-ton blockbusters on Berlin, Bremen and the Rhineland communications hub of Mannheim.

Hood Renamed Head Of Commerce Firm

COMMERCE, Ga., Feb. 19.—C. W. Hood Jr. was re-elected president of the Commerce Manufacturing Company at a meeting of the board of directors this week. Other officers include F. E. Durst Jr., vice president and general manager; H. F. Bray, secretary, and C. M. Scoggins, treasurer.

The following directors were elected by the stockholders: C. W. Hood Jr., F. E. Durst Jr., H. F. Bray, R. M. Davidson, Dr. A. A. Rogers, C. M. Scoggins, W. B. Rice, Athens; C. W. Lomax, Chicago, and John W. Robinson, Winder.

Figures presented the directors and stockholders showed that more than $253,000 had been paid employes during the year and that the company surpassed the $1,250,000 mark in business during 1944.

$20,480 Paid at Rome Livestock Auction

ROME, Ga., Feb. 19.—A total of $20,480 was paid for livestock at the last sale held by the Coosa Valley Livestock Association here, when 464 cows, 42 hogs, pigs and shoats, three goats and two mules changed hands.

Top hogs broughh $14.40 per 100 pounds, pigs and shoats, $8 to $13.10 per 100 pounds; springer cows, $36 to $110 per head and slaughter cows, $5.40 to $11.70 per hundredweight.

J. P. Baker, special Floyd county farm agent in charge of livestock, states that at the sale to be held March 7, there will be listed 16 registered Hereford cows and heifers and several other purebred Herefords.

Soldiers Like Patton, Young Veteran Says

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 19.—Frank Herring Jr., 21-year-old veteran of the invasion of Germany by American armies, who left his right foot on a battleground and crawled two miles for medical aid for his buddies, talked to members of the Lamar Civic League at its last meeting.

Herring, introduced and queried by Kelly Bowman, past commander of the local American Legion post, told of his experiences in a tank which led a unit. The tank was blown up by the Germans, he said, and the five men of the crew were severely injured. Because he had served two years previously in a medical unit, the young soldier knew how to take care of his injured leg, and after that was done he began crawling and five hours later he reached help and sent back for his commanding officer and the other three men.

"The men are 100 per cent behind Gen. Patton," Herring said when asked how his men like the general. "He is more like a football coach when he is urging his team on to victory than a military man. We need more generals like him," he declared.

Clifford Seay, president, who presided, announced that at the next meeting Dr. J. A. Corry, chairman of the Barnesville Red Cross Chapter, and Elijah Wisebram, chairman of the War Fund drive, will have charge of the program.

tients, and those with combat fatigue.

THEN RELAX

Taken to the station hospital at Camp Shanks, a staging area of the New York port of embarkation, for redistribution, the men finally started to relax.

One group looked at a ward numbered "4F" and laughed, "This is the one they're saving for us."

As they ate dinner, they told tall tales about how they were trapped in a slit trench and spent "three days without food, water—or women!"

Some caught themselves carefully tucking copies of magazines distributed by the Red Cross into their pockets and explained sheepishly that "reading matter was gold over there."

A whole ward went crazy with joy as Pvt. David Craig telephoned his home in Indianapolis, and discovered he was the father of a boy born Feb. 8.

MINIMIZE THEIR WOUNDS

And almost to a man they shrugged off their wounds by talking of others worse off than themselves.

Pfc. Howard R. Myers, of Baltimore, Md., whose leg was shot off below the knee, remembered a man he'd seen in England who had had both legs amputated at the hips.

A blind boy from Brooklyn, who hadn't yet told his family how he was wounded, grinned and said, "I'll just get me a tin cup and shine up some apples. That's an easy way to make a living."

Then he stopped and added seriously, "I always wondered what it would be like to be blind. It wouldn't be so bad if it weren't for my imagination. Every morning I wake up and my eyes feel good because I've had so much sleep. Right away I grab a book to see if I can read. But of course I never can."

CALIFORNIAN'S STORY

The most amazing story probably was that of Pvt. Sammie Eastton, of Modesto, Cal., who was captured during the German breakthrough, ordered to throw his rifle on the ground and his hands in the air, and then was shot at by two German soldiers.

One bullet entered on a slant right above his heart, hit the chest bone and traveled all the way across his chest and out the right arm pit, leaving an angry red scare behind it.

Pvt. Eastton fell on his gun and a buddy who was hiding in a foxhole near by shot one of the Germans. Eastton regained consciousness in time to grab his rifle and shoot the other in the face.

HIT THREE MORE TIMES

Running desperately through enemy fire, he was shot twice more in the arm. Just as he arrived in front of the command station a German bullet entered his cheek, nicked off the tip of his tongue, shattered the jaw bone, ricocheted in his mouth until it knocked out nine teeth, and finally split open his chin. Later, enemy planes bombed his hospital in Belgium and killed three out of 16 people in his ward.

What he wants now is some California sunshine—and his fruit ranch.

"It's no fun," he grinned under his wired and taped head, "sittin' in a foxhole full of snow water."

Do you envy the energy of others?

If you feel worn out or run-down, remember this: that feeling of exhaustion is usually nature's way of warning you to take better care of yourself—to do something now—before it's too late to correct the condition easily.

What should you do? If you're not sure what causes that tired feeling, see a doctor without delay.

But, if you know there's nothing systematically wrong with you—then, that tired feeling may indicate your diet is deficient in the kind of vitamins and minerals that aid nature in maintaining normal energy and vitality. In that case, Vitawine Tonic may prove helpful.

Vitawine is scientifically formulated as an aid to nature in rebuilding pep, strength and energy when you're not getting enough Vitamin B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

So, if you feel worn out, or envy the energy of others—ask your doctor or druggist about Vitawine! Interstate Laboratories, Inc., Louisville 2, Kentucky.

Duck Output Still Below Army Needs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A shortage of trained workers has prevented three-shift operations in cotton duck plants, principally in Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas and Texas, the War Production Board announces.

The output of duck is still 20 per cent below military requirements for the first quarter of 1945 although production has increased to more than four times the pre-war level, WPB said.

One of the current major shortages was said to be in shelter tents.

Vitamins Once a Day May Be Inadequate

By H. C. NAYLOR, Inc.
Lane Drug Stores, Inc.

Too many people believe that a rule which applies to some is sufficient for all. The use of Vitamins is a case in point.

As a matter of fact, Vitamins should be ordered by the doctor, and the quantity and quality specified. Any other procedure is apt to be the "hit or miss" plan and fail in hoped for results.

There are pharmaceutical firms whose products are of outstanding quality, and who maintain unceasing vigilance over the quality and potency of their products.

The doctor's advice, however, as to the quantity needed by an individual, is important. Needs are as various as finger prints.

Consult your doctor about the use of Vitamins. Purchase quality products from a reliable druggist. (c)

night in his first communique on Iwo ground fighting that "the operation is proceeding satisfactorily."

Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of the Pacific Marines, said "our men are spread all over hell's acre out there. And they are going after those hidden Jap guns which are mighty hard to locate." He declared "overall progress is satisfactory."

Initial casualties were described as "considerable" by eyewitnesses aboard V. Adm. Richmond Kelley Turner's flagship. The admiral is the top amphibious commander.

Describing the landing, Morrie Landsberg, Associated Press War correspondent aboard the flagship, said the Japanese on Iwo "abandoned their beach positions under the devastating American bombardment before the Marines swarmed ashore."

The Marines, he said, tumbled into long stretches of abandoned Japanese trenches to escape concentrated artillery and mortar fire.

PHOTOGRAPHER ASHORE

Joseph Rosenthal, Associated Press photographer, who was ashore with the Leathernecks, said they were advancing from shell hole to shell hole.

There was no doubt about it—the American beachhead was secure. It extends almost two and a half miles northward from the Suribachi volcano.

More than 800 ships were in the invasion armada. Admiral Nimitz said only two "light units" were damaged. The invasion fleet included battleships of the most modern type and heaviest tonnage as well as resurrected survivors of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor.

Just before the invasion, as the Naval guns thundered, swarms of rocket-firing planes raked the beaches. Then carrier planes went in to dump explosives just ahead of the Leathernecks.

A terrific fight was soon under way as the Japanese recovered from their initial shock. Nippon fire intensified as the Marines moved inland. When the more rugged volcanic country back from the beaches was reached, the Leathernecks used flame-throwers to burn out pillboxes.

tinued the reduction of enemy strong points and mopping up in the rear of batteries," MacArthur announced. "On Bataan we are combing the peninsula for enemy remnants. In south Manila the steady reduction of the final enemy positions continues."

A concentrated 175-ton bombing of Takao airdrome on Formosa by Army liberators caused extensive damage to an aluminum plant and rail yards, MacArthur reported.

Air patrols damaged three small freighters off the Formosa coast and sank another in the Sakashima islands near by.

Other patrol bombers bombed and strafed a 3,000-ton freighter-transport off the French Indo-China coast. The vessel was left aground and blazing.

Northwest Borneo took a 64-ton bombing concentrated on the runway and dispersal area of Miri airdrome as well as two other airfields in the vicinity. A patrol ship and a loaded barge were sunk off the coast.

BURNING OUT TUNNELS

American troops blasted and burned Japanese out of Corregidor's tunnels and caves, but still moved cautiously against enemy positions in Manila, where lives of thousands of civilians were jeopardized.

An example of what fate might overtake the men, women and children held behind the aged but stout walls of the old Intramuros district of the city was disclosed at De La Salle College.

The bodies of 60 Catholic priests and civilians, who had been given refuge, were found in the ruins of the college in the Malate district. They had been shot and bayoneted by Japanese.

Warships of the Seventh Fleet promptly moved in to bombard enemy positions on the Cavite shore, on the south side of the bay's entrance.

7,000 RELEASED

Troops of the 148th Infantry regiment, who recovered the bodies from the De La Salle College Saturday, also released some 7,000 patients, doctors, nurses and refugees from the nearby Philippines general hospital. These included about 100 Americans.

Japs Describe How U.S. Landed On Iwo Jima

By The Associated Press.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said American warships ringing Iwo Jima had shelled the fortress island from all points of the compass Sunday before Marines stormed ashore after dawn yesterday.

Earlier Japanese broadcasts had reported simultaneous landings at two points on Iwo, but a late radio dispatch concerned itself with the thrust onto Futatsune beach, at the southwestern end of the island.

Domei said 300 landing craft, in three waves, stormed the beach.

"HEAVY TOLL"

"Japanese garrisons are fighting heroically, exacting a heavy toll of the enemy forces," the news agency claimed.

The Tokyo radio reported earlier that throughout Sunday American ships, firing from a range of one or two kilometers, had subjected Iwo to a violent barrage.

Domei broadcast these details:

"Prior to the commencement of landing operations, the enemy task force operating around Iwo Jima on Feb. 18 fiercely shelled and bombed the Japanese positions. Between 6 a. m. and 5 p. m. two enemy battleships in waters south of the island bombarded the Japanese positions.

CRUISERS ACTIVE

"Meanwhile, several enemy cruisers approached the southern shore of the island and also bombarded our positions.

"Other enemy cruisers continued shelling the western and northeastern sectors of the island.

"In concert with the bombardment carried out by the enemy warships, enemy planes conducted reconnaissance over the island all day long on Feb. 18.

"Early this morning, Feb. 19, the enemy forces, under cover of an intense bombardment and aerial attack, commenced landing on Futatsune beach, located on the southern tip of the island, on approximately 300 landing craft, divided into three groups."

The broadcasts were intercepted by the Federal Communications Commission.

fire—when the Liberator aboard which I was a passenger swept across the fringes of the island.

Fire twinkled at us from the ground as Lt. Cmdr. L. R. Gehlbach, of Beason, Ill., swung the big bomber over Suribachi's crater. Over the head phones I could hear the Marines calling for fire support from the fleet.

Bursts of orange flame sprang from the muzzles of the 16-inch battleship rifles and huge columns of smoke and fire rose from the island where the shells hit. Smoke and dust covered the entire island as hundreds of small craft moved toward the beach with rocket guns blazing.

Iwo looked like a fat pork chop sizzling on a skillet.

Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers with capacity bomb loads peeled off all around us and dived on their assigned targets. I saw one Navy fighter crash in flames just inland from where the Marines fought to consolidate their beachhead. There wasn't a single Japanese plane in the sky.

As we flew back to the Marianas we could see the invasion armada spread out for scores of miles around Iwo.

South Carolina Gets a Real Merit System

In answer to widespread public demand the special commission charged with redrafting Georgia's archaic constitution incorporated in its suggested version of the new organic law a provision that a state merit system be adopted.

Such a setup, functioning in manner closely analogous to federal civil service, would serve to insure efficient personnel in the various departments and bureaus of the state government. It would put an end to nepotism and the extravagant practice whereunder incoming governors have brought veritable trainloads of their followers in to fill state jobs.

Moreover, it would serve to give a feeling of security to qualified state employes and they would not be constantly taking other jobs removed from the changing political tides.

The legislature, thus far, has left the commission's merit system proposal in the revised constitution. But neither house, to date, has evidenced interest in setting up the machinery to provide for the inauguration of a workable program.

The merit system provided in the commission's redraft is—not unlike Speaker Harris' version of home rule—permissive rather than mandatory. And unless the legislature takes definite steps to effectuate a merit system setup, it will count for naught.

South Carolina, on the other hand, has just completed a two-year study of the problem and bills have been introduced in both houses providing for a personnel system which will go far towards eliminating the undesirable features inherent in the haphazard employment program in that state.

The South Carolina plan would set up a state personnel commission which would interview and give tests to prospective state employes. Vacancies would continue to be filled by department heads—but from a list of eligibles furnished by the board. Present state employes would be protected in their jobs and insured of fair play while the board would prevent the employment of persons who were not qualified.

South Carolina's program might not prove adaptable to the Georgia situation. But it seems to us if the Georgia legislature is really in earnest about eliminating the patronage evil, it might at least give some time and energy to an effort to work out a similar system in this state.

A Great American Woman Dies

Henrietta Szold died last week, in the 85th year of her age. A native American, Miss Szold was one of the greatest humanitarians of her time, her achievements bringing to her honors rarely conferred on women.

She was the founder of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America. She is credited as being the chief inspiration and factor in the implanting of American ideals of democracy and American ways of thought into the Jewish community in Palestine. She was largely responsible, too, for the establishment of the great Palestine hospitals and other institutions which have been so valuable to the Allies in the war.

Miss Szold was selected, in 1940, as one of the hundred outstanding American women of the last century, by the Women's Centennial Congress.

She formed the Youth Aliyah, a movement which has saved from Nazi barbarity thousands of Jewish boys and girls of Europe. She organized Palestine's medical and sanitary service, gave direction to the Hebrew educational system, founded a great social service and otherwise led and inspired her people all over the world.

Born in Baltimore, Md., on Dec. 21, 1860, this American woman lived long and filled her years with service to humanity which will not be forgotten as long as the ideals she espoused remain the ideals of true Americanism.

Can the Chinese Nation Unite?

In the war against Japan one of the most difficult problems has been the inevitable weakening of Chinese military strength due to the dissension between the Chungking government and the strong Communist government to the north. There have been disquieting reports to the effect that Communist armies, numbering at least 1,000,000 men, have not only failed to fight alongside the Chungking forces against the common invader, the Japanese, but have, on occasion, clashed with their compatriots.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has promised that China will have a constitutional government, including representatives of all parties, before the end of 1945. Proposals for settlement of differences have been made to the Communist faction, but these have been rejected. It is now reported that the Communist delegate, Gen. Chou En-Lai, is returning to Yenan, Communist headquarters, with new proposals.

It is earnestly to be hoped the Chinese factions can unite and present a strong front to the common foe. Eventually, regardless of the Chinese strength, we and our allies will smash Japanese militarism. With a united China to aid, however, the length of the Pacific war could be reduced, certainly by months, perhaps by years.

The Chungking government has put up a marvelous defense against the Japanese for more than seven years. They still lack proper equipment, however, and are feeling the inevitable let-down in spirit which comes after so long a struggle against tremendous odds.

Not only for the quick ending of the Pacific war, but for the future of peacetime China and, hence, the advantage of the whole world, there could be nothing finer than an end to Chinese factionalism and creation of a truly united nation functioning under a just constitutional form of representative government.

Labor Hoarding

Editor Constitution: The question of manpower shortage has become the most popular discussed topic of the day. There appears to be no logic or reason in the procedure the government is pursuing to attain their goal for either the Army or essential war plants.

For instance, under the present plans the government is now reclassifying all young men who have been deferred as farmers. This, in my opinion, is one of the most essential deferments the government could make. Without food for our armed forces, the people here at home, the other half for Russia and Britain, there is little hope for success on any fronts.

As a suggestion, if the government would discontinue hoarding personnel, deferring men whose jobs could be filled by older men and release 25 per cent of the young girls eligible for nurse training, there would be no need for national "service legislation." If the congress would really investigate all deferments of government employes and the actual requirements of the various agencies, there would be no critical manpower shortage, providing, of course, the intentions of the selective service act was carried out to the letter. 'The Living Dead'

Editor Constitution: In last Sunday's issue of The Constitution I read with much interest the article written by Paul Jones entitled "The Living Dead" which depicted a very sad story concerning the unfortunate Negroes housed at 199 Houston street.

I am glad to know that Mr. Jones interested himself in calling to the attention of the public a situation which has gone unnoticed much too long. The situation was adequately described and in no way exaggerated.

About six months ago it was necessary for the writer to visit this institution in interest of several visually handicapped persons who had been referred to an organization of which she is a volunteer worker. I was surprised to learn that most of the inmates of whom I inquired and with whom I talked were recipients of public funds, and to note what inadequate provision was being made for their welfare and care.

Probably the person in charge is sincere in her desire to help unfortunate people and feels that she is rendering a much needed service to these inmates and to the community—and she is—for if she did not make them welcome to live there, where would they go?

Churchill's Reply To General Franco

(Editor's Note: Ralph McGill is en route around the world as a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' mission in behalf of universal news freedom. His column will appear as time and communication facilities allow. When it is not available, substitute features will be used, as today's by Ernest K. Lindley.)

The British government would be well advised to release the full texts of the correspondence recently exchanged between Generalissimo Franco and Churchill. The publication of this correspondence would bring out clearly the change which British policy toward Spain has undergone since last May when Churchill castigated those who "think it clever or even funny to insult the leaders of the Spanish government whenever occasion serves." It would also throw a new light on the mentality of Spain's now bankrupt dictator.

Franco's communication, which was written in the form of a letter to the Duke of Alba, Spanish ambassador to London, to be read to Churchill whenever the opportunity was ripe, was dated Oct. 18, 1944. It was delivered to Churchill six weeks later when it looked to the Spaniards as if the Germans were no longer able to stem the Allied advance in the west. Franco must have spent a few anxious moments during the Ardennes breakthrough, for his whole letter to Churchill was based on the assumption that Germany would not only be defeated but completely destroyed.

Most of Franco's letter was devoted to the theme that after the war Russia would dominate not only Asia but most of Europe; that France and Italy would be so weak that they could be completely disregarded; that the United States would be content to dominate the Pacific and Atlantic oceans and that, therefore, Britain had only one potential ally against the march of Bolshevism into Europe, i. e., Spain.

"I realize," Franco said, "that you or any men occupying high military or political positions in Britain cannot publicly subscribe to this view," but he said he had no doubt that inwardly Churchill agreed with him. The letter complained about BBC broadcasts unfriendly to Spain and about activities of British agents which Franco held to be inimical to the Spanish state. It concluded by expressing the hope for a close understanding between the two governments.

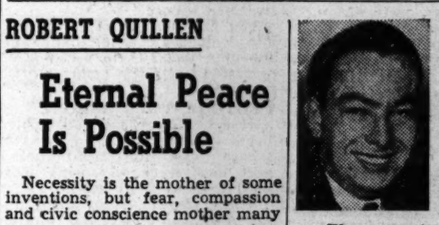

Churchill's Reply Churchill replied by stressing the need of establishing close and cordial relations between Britain and the Spanish people but not necessarily their present government. He then went on to say that though Spain had not opposed Britain at the time of the collapse of France in 1940 or of the North African invasion of 1942, "throughout the war German influence has been continuously permitted to embarrass the British and Allied war effort." Churchill cited the dispatch of the Blue Division to the Russian front, the arbitrary suppression of the Tangier regime, also "your excellency's speeches in which the victory of our enemies was regarded not only as inevitable but as highly desirable." "The war," he continued, "has now reached another stage, but the consistently hostile attitude toward this country of the Falange has remained unchanged."

Churchill devoted most of his letter to relations with the Russians. He said he wishes to disabuse Franco of any illusion he might have of securing British approval for or participation in anti-Soviet blocs. The Anglo-Soviet treaty of 1942 is the cornerstone of our foreign policy, he said, and "His Majesty's government is not prepared to consider any group of powers in western Europe and elsewhere on a basis of hostility towards or defense against our Russian allies. We regard the continuance of Anglo-Russian collaboration within the framework of the future world organization as essential."

No Question He then went on to tell Franco that "there can be no question of His Majesty's government supporting Spanish claims to participation in the eventual peace settlement" and assured Franco "that no invitation will be forthcoming for the admission of Spain to the future world organization."

As far back as Oct., 1943, Carlton J. H. Hayes, then U. S. ambassador to Madrid, warned the Spanish government of the danger and futility, from the viewpoint of Spain, of its anti-Soviet policies. Ambassador Hayes did this on his own initiative in the form of a personal letter to the late Count Jordana, Spanish foreign minister. He followed up the subject in another letter in Dec., 1943, and doubtless on other occasions and by other means. For a long time, however, the United States government felt hampered by Churchill's apparently strong attachment to the Franco regime.

Churchill's recent letter to Franco puts American and British policy toward Franco on substantially common ground. By now it should be plain to Franco that he and his regime are a fatal handicap to the legitimate interests and aspirations of the Spanish people, who in Britain and the United States alike, are held in friendly regard.

Barrage Balloons Leave London Sky

Everybody who has visited London since shortly before the war's beginning in 1939 holds among their most vivid memories those great, sausage-like balloons, known as barrage balloons, which floated sedately in the sky.

Now comes word that, because of the greatly reduced need for protection of British towns, cities and industrial buildings against air attack, the RAF Balloon Command is being disbanded.

By the end of the blitz against London the Balloon Command was flying 2,400 of the huge gas bags. Not only against the Luftwaffe did the balloons prove their value, but also against the flying bombs, those early examples of robot air attack which have now been succeeded by the V-2, against which there does not seem to be any effective protection.

During the days of the robot bombs, the balloons brought down 278 of these weapons which had eluded other defenses, such as anti-aircraft artillery and fighter planes.

Pattern of Defense Those balloons floated in the air, tethered each to its great truck by means of a thin steel cable, which was hauled in or let out from a big drum mounted on the truck, at varying heights. There was a pattern in their location and height, a pattern which would provide the most effective shield against enemy planes.

Some of the balloons were connected by lateral cables and from many hung long, loose cables which were there to tangle and bring down any planes which might try to dive beneath them.

In the early days of the war, as one traveled through Britain, these balloons were one of the most striking visual evidences of the war itself. They were seen over most cities and, sometimes, as you gazed from train window, a little cluster in the open country would indicate that some war factory or other important military installation was just below. I recall that I thought that was foolish, as locating vital objectives for any planes the Germans might send over.

Not Britain Alone But the balloons were not used in Britain alone. They were flown over convoys at sea, especially those slow, rich convoys which traveled along the British coast.

The balloons were used over the beaches of Sicily and Italy during our landings there, and they were over the Normandy beaches on D-Day, June 6 last. They helped to defend the Suez canal, the Persian gulf and Ceylon. I believe a few flew in this country in the early days of the war, when enemy attacks on our coasts was not believed impossible.

Disbanding of the command does not mean that the whole outfit will be done away with. A nucleus of balloons, equipment and staffs will be retained in Britain, ready if unexpected emergency shall call again for their use. Some balloon detachments will continue in use in the battle areas, or overseas.

Women Served It has long been known that women served as a large proportion of the operating staffs of the balloons, just as women so largely manned the antiaircraft batteries around London. These women shared equally with the men, not only the dangers of bombs and flying bombs, but the rigors of the weather, as they had to stay on duty long hours in the open.

And, believe me, the weather 'most anywhere in England can be truly rigorous.

In 1943 over 1,000 individual balloon sites were staffed entirely by women.

Just for the record, the London balloon barrage actually came into existence in March, 1937. A few months later, in November, 1938, it was decided to provide balloon barrages for the ports, naval bases and coastal towns.

I recall that, when I was in England when war was declared, in 1939, some of the writers of "letters to the editor," in the British newspapers, argued vehemently for the establishment of a balloon barrage all along the east coast, from southern England to northern Scotland. Which, even if possible, would have been useless, for planes came over at altitudes far too high for balloons to reach. It was as prevention of low-flying bombing that the balloons proved their value.

Well, the vital days for the Balloon Command are over. The men and women who served them are being interviewed on their qualifications and transferred to other war duties, in the services and in British war factories.

They may never again float their balloons over London, but, for all those who saw Britain during this war, one of the most vivid pictures will always be that of the huge, cumbersome, silver-painted balloons floating so languidly against the clouds, the sunshine and the blue.

ROBERT QUILLEN

Eternal Peace Is Possible

Necessity is the mother of some inventions, but fear, compassion and civic conscience mother many more.

It was the picture of multitudes of children strangling to death that prompted men of science to find a way to prevent diphtheria, just as the sight of deformed and helpless children prompts the present effort to prevent polio.

Now the fear and the conscience of all mankind urge us to prevent recurrent of the scourge that is more deadly than all others combined.

Look back a number of years and you see an orderly and contented world, working, playing, loving; building, growing and improving in harmony with universal law. Now it lies in ruins, drenched with blood; all its wealth wasted; the work of centuries destroyed; millions murdered and other millions starved.

To say mankind cannot prevent another like it is to say that nations must be permitted to build murder weapons and organize their energies for the sole purpose of robbing, ravishing and killing their neighbors. Such a declaration seems idiotic.

A friendly commentator said recently that President Roosevelt "has no illusions" about the possibility of stopping all warfare. If that is true—if he hopes and plans for nothing more than a generation of peace supported by superior force—he will lose his opportunity to earn a place among history's great. He will be remembered only as the man who served four terms and lived in the White House during the second World War.

America's prestige wanes as Russia's grows, but our country is still the dominant nation of the world, and Roosevelt speaks for it. On him rests the burden of determing whether our boys shall have suffered and died in vain.

We can prevent war forever. Nothing stands in the way except our own timidity, unconcern and shortsighted selfishness. A fraction of the effort that is winning this war could end organized murder for all time.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

AN ILLUSTRATION OF THE NEED FOR HOME RULE

(Thomaston Times)

The senator from this district has introduced a bill in the legislature to make it illegal for one person to hold the office of mayor of Thomaston and that of county commissioner of Upson county.

This is an illustration of the need for home rule in Georgia. Under the right sort of home rule regulation this could not happen. It has happened many times before however under the present way of legislating in Georgia and this has created a demand for a home rule provision in the constitution which is now being revised. The people of a county or city should have the right to say by ballot whether they want an office abolished or as in this case whether they want the same man to hold more than one office in a county.

In this particular instance one man, the senator from this district, is seeking to impose his will on the people of the county regardless of how they feel about the matter. He cannot truthfully say he is serving the will of the people unless and until his bill has been passed upon by the people of the county as a whole at the ballot box.

We hope the legislature will kill this bill or postpone it until a home rule provision in the constitution has been provided. It should not be allowed to pass now.

Aren't They Cheaper In Wholesale Lots?

A New York gentleman has announced that he will pay three cents apiece for live fleas.

The news story didn't say whether that was the delivered price or F. O. B.

The next ad you see, "Make Big Money—Start From Scratch," may not be meant in the figurative sense.

More than likely he wants the little varmints for experimental purposes. But, from the scale of his operations, he may well be going into competition with Ringling.

With him paying three cents each for fleas and two dollars being the standard dogpound fee, a fellow ought to be able to turn from three to four hundred per cent profit just bailing out airdales and poodles.

I will not print the gentleman's address, partly because if too many people get in on it, the market will drop.

Besides, the nation's letter-carriers have trouble enough already.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Roosevelt Makes Another Smart Move

WASHINGTON.—In naming two United States senators and two congressmen to sit as members of the American delegation to the coming United Nations security conference at San Francisco, President Roosevelt has shown a determination to avoid the mistakes which caused his predecessor, Woodrow Wilson, to lose out in the fight to obtain American adherence to the League of Nations protocol after the last World War.

The President's move is typically Rooseveltian—simple and straightforward, with an eye to compromise.

It may be regarded as the pattern, also, for the delegation to be selected later to represent the United States at the final peace table. The senate and house is certain to be represented at that conference, everyone concedes.

Most observers of that period agree that the late President Wilson's failure to achieve his aims with respect to the League of Nations may be attributed to his refusal to include members of the senate in the American peace delegation. He went to Versailles without a single United States senator in his official entourage.

And this in spite of the fact that the senate, under the constitution, is charged with the responsibility of ratifying all treaties by a two-thirds majority.

If Mr. Wilson had tempered his idealism with a little more practical politics, and taken members of the senate with him, the history of the League and American participation might have been far different.

Having served as a part of the Wilson administration, President Roosevelt is able to profit by the mistakes of the past. He has acted accordingly. It is inconceivable that he should have acted otherwise, master political strategist that he is.

From Congress Congressional delegates to the San Francisco conference, as announced by the White House, will be Sen. Tom Connally, of Texas, and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, the first a Democrat and the second a Republican; together with Rep. Sol Bloom, New York Democrat, and Rep. Charles A. Eaton, New Jersey Republican.

Hence a perfect balance is struck as between representatives of the two major parties. Mr. Roosevelt might have satisfied himself by naming two Democrats and one Republican. He chose to give the minority party equal representation by way of emphasizing the nonpartisan character of the important deliberations.

Moreover, he might, with full propriety, have ignored the house in the matter entirely, since the lower body exercises no authority at all in the ratification of treaties and international agreements, subjects which are reserved exclusively for senate consideration.

But the President included members of the lower chamber as a gesture to congress.

Sen. Connally and Rep. Bloom were natural selections for the assignment for the reason that one is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, while the other is head of the corresponding Foreign Affairs Committee of the house.

GOP Members Much the same protocol seems to have been followed in selecting the Republican members. Rep. Eaton is the ranking minority member of the foreign affairs body, and Sen. Vandenberg, while not occupying the same position on foreign relations, is exceeded in rank among Republicans only by Sen. Hiram Johnson, of California, and Sen. Arthur Capper, of Kansas, both of whom are regarded as too old to serve effectively.

The President consequently cannot be accused of playing favorites in selecting the congressional representatives to attend the west coast conclave. He proceeded according to form.

In many respects, the San Francisco conference will be far more important than the later Allied peace conference because it is supposed to write the formula for maintaining world peace after the war. The peace conclave will be left with only the questions of boundaries, reparations and punitive measures to be dealt with.

What is infinitely more important from the standpoint of achieving the aims for which we are fighting in this war is world security. That is the primary purpose of the United Nations conference at San Francisco, which is destined to go down in history as one of the landmarks of our era.

Mr. Roosevelt may be credited with another brilliant move in separating the two propositions—peace and security. Had he linked them together, with both to be decided at the final peace table, the results might have been different—and fatal.

Georgia's Hardest Working Legislature

Gov. Arnall frequently calls the 1945 legislature the greatest in history. It has done some great things. It has passed up opportunities to do other great things. A true evaluation cannot be made until the general assembly completes final action on the proposed revised constitution. But regardless of what anyone thinks of the results accomplished by the legislature, we believe all who have witnessed it on the job will agree that the present assembly is perhaps the hardest working in Georgia's history.

Speeding through the wartime session at the request of Senate President Frank Gross and House Speaker Roy Harris to release war-needed hotel and transportation facilities, the legislators plan to adjourn two weeks ahead of the 70-day limit.

Day In, Day Out Where former legislatures were in session only three or four hours a day, the present assembly works six and seven hours a day. With the exception of the organization period of the first week, legislators have been attending two sessions a day virtually all this term. Where former legislators ended their day's work at 1 or 2 p. m., the present crowd checks out at 5 p. m., and few of them have time for lunch. As soon as the house and senate recesses for an hour's lunch period, numerous committees meet—and the members lose half or three-fourths of their lunch period, and have to rush into the halls for sandwiches.

These all-day meetings began for a large portion of senators and representatives when the constitution committees began a week's study of the revised document. These big committees spent three hours each afternoon on the constitution. Then Gross and Harris threw the entire membership of the senate and house into two sessions daily to consider the constitution. Although the house has finished its work on the constitution, it still meets twice daily—working on other major bills.

While the past legislatures have met all day, and even far into the night, their long meetings didn't begin until the closing days of the session. The present solons have been at it all along.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Servicemen Show No Rabid Intolerance

WASHINGTON.—Life moves on like a book of short stories in which the same characters reappear, except that in war the pace is swifter, the events more dramatic, the tragedies so much more frequent and poignant.

Here in this space, only a week ago, there was related the story of the American Legion post at Hood River, Ore., which had erased the names of 16 Japanese-Americans, or Nisei as they are called, from its honor roll, and how National Commander Edward N. Scheiberling intervened with the post, in vain, to recall its action.

Now comes the story of one of the 16, Frank T. Machiya, 25, of Portland, Ore., who died a hero's death after a dangerous mission for which he volunteered at Leyte.

It was one of those sharp cameos of war. The regiment was in a difficult position. Information of the disposition of the enemy was needed. Hachiya volunteered to lead a patrol across a valley swept by Japanese fire. He got out ahead of the patrol. A Jap sniper shot him through the stomach. He was able to make his way back up the hill. But the bullet had passed through his liver. He died on the operating table.

What the American boys who served with him thought of him is shown by the fact that nearly everybody in the regiment volunteered to give blood transfusions to try to save his life.

Will his name go back on the honor roll?

In this same place, too, only a week ago, was told the story of the Disabled American Veterans post at Hermiston, Ore., which had voted against admission of Japanese-American or Negro veterans to membership.

Now comes the copy of a letter which an American aviator, a first lieutenant, has sent to that post, from which the following is quoted:

"I read in the morning paper where you had recently voted 'never to allow a Japanese or a colored veteran' to become members of your post.

"It is impossible for me to convey to you the great dismay that seeing this caused me.

"I have just returned from a tour of combat duty as a navigator on a B-24 with the 15th Air Force and am fully aware of the great esteem in which the colored fighter pilots are held by the bomber boys they cover. Are they fighting for the continuance of discrimination against themselves?

"Infantrymen returning on the same boat with me told me of the fine record established by the Japanese-American troops of the Fifth Army. These white men to whom I spoke had only great admiration for these 'Japs' who had evidently carried far more than their share of the battle.

"Consider, gentlemen, what many such things as you are doing would mean."

He referred then to other incidents of discrimination against Japanese-Americans reported here a week ago.

"Read and reflect on this. Other references suggested are the Bible and the American constitution.

"Please do not consider this as a mischievous paper but rather a letter from a man genuinely concerned with what he considers to be an un-American trend and one detrimental to the interests of our country."

Such tolerance is typical among servicemen who have fought side by side with Americans of other races.

Tolerant, too, are communications which have come from civilians in this country.

Unreasonable Censorship

The simplest way to smash the secrecy which has been imposed on the American press in matters which do not involve the safety of fighting forces or the President, is to violate the censorship defiantly and challenge President Roosevelt to do his worst. The White House correspondents, being at a distadvantage and in a false, semi-social position, will shrink from such conduct and may be pardoned for continuing to conceal from the people harmless news which is entrusted to them under the seal of confidence. But there is nothing to prevent individuals from withdrawing from the circle formally with a warning that henceforth they will obey their own judgment. Such reporters would be barred from the Roosevelt press conferences, but that would be no loss either to the individual or to the public.

Any good reporter can pick up outside the press conference and outside the intimacy of the White House as much information as he can get by maintaining his standing in the Bund and feel free to use it according to his discretion. The majority, continuing to adhere, subject to the restrictions, would be able to continue their routine recountals of sifted and adulterated news and Roosevelt's stilted and one-sided repartee, for what it is worth to the public, if anything.

White House news has, to a large extent, been made a commodity and prequisite sold through a racket. The regular reporters get the routine stuff but favored individuals, notably Harry Hopkins, so long a guest of the nation, are allowed to sell for their personal profit more important bits which the whole press deserves by reason of its position. To be sure, the newspapers and press association are governed by the profit motive. But it is not news which they sell but their unique and peculiar talents in learning news and their service in disseminating the same.

Their position has been recognized in the very custom of holding press conferences for if their function were not legitimate and a public service, the conferences would not be held. This being their position, they have a responsibility to the public not to accept unnecessary and unreasonable restraints and to withdraw from agreements which hamper them in their legitimate obligations. If, then, all independent members of the conference were to decide, tomorrow, to boycott these meetings and rely on their own resourcefulness and discretion, always mindful of the requirement to check facts, Roosevelt would be more at loss than the press. For it is a fact that, far more flagrantly than Herbert Hoover, who was accused of loading his conferences with questions which he could answer for his own benefit, Roosevelt has conducted his classes as a propagandist by methods which rarely have permitted him to be shown at a disadvantage. He has his ideological and political claque always on hand to feed him easy questions, to laugh at his pedagogical humor and to snap it off when the going gets rough. And on the few occasions when he has come out of these encounters wearing long, fuzzy ears he was the author of his own embarrassment, through the fault of his own patronizing overconfidence.

In the recent situation, when Hopkins and Ed Stettinius were interviewed and photographed in Europe, Washington reporters, not members of the White House circle, would have been justified in writing that these two were overseas and bound on another pilgrimage to Stalin. Hopkins, certainly, is not a national treasure deserving the precautions which are conceded to the President for the sake of his personal safety. Stettinius, although he is secretary of state, already had been placed in Europe by dispatches from overseas. Therefore no American reporter, knowing that they were abroad and why, and having obtained the information without obligation, could have been blamed, much less punished, for telling the news in defiance of the censorship which has no legal support.

The standard American press, as distinguished from our relatively few totalitarian papers, most of them published in New York, is noted among the journalism of the entire world for its respect for confidence. This is at once a great virtue and a serious weakness, often imposed upon by Roosevelt to the injury of not only the papers, themselves, but of their readers and to the danger of the freedom of the press. For if this American press, enjoying this freedom, shall enter secret agreements to withhold news where there is no justification for the secrecy, then it is defaulting a duty which that freedom imposes.

If, the next time Roosevelt goes to Hyde Park, some reporter learning of this, subject to no confidential obligation, should file the story, allowing him time to arrive, that would be a helpful challenge to a system of censorship which has imposed on the press and its readers unreasonably. I intend to do it myself. At Hyde Park he is guarded by a loyal household garrison and is no more exposed to danger than he is in the White House.

"Establishing an 'A' priority rating for the dog was unauthorized under regulations relating to air priorities."—Senate subcommittee report.

In the very joy of living, when our youth is in its flower,
And the older heads are giving firm instructions by the hour,
We ignore their earnest pleading that we shun the thing that's wrong
And upon our way, unheeding, we go merrily along.
We remember years behind us and granddad used to call
For the kids, or come and find us when the night began to fall,
He would gently hover o'er us as he stroked each knotty head
While for hours he would bore us with the many things he said.

"Children should be mighty wary or they'll come to some bad end—
It's important to be careful in the choosing of a friend—
Folks that hold the high positions often help us out a heap—
And the world will always judge us by the company we keep—
Even dogs are persecuted if they get a sorry name,
They are judged by their companions, and with kids it's just the same."

Years have passed since dear old granddad went to take his final rest—
Now we know the things he told us, through those years have stood the test,
For a dog that's well connected may go sailing on his wings
If he knows the proper people and can pull the proper strings!

Takes a Nap on Mail Sacks Flying to Marianas

IN THE MARIANAS ISLANDS. After you take off from one of the island stops crossing the Pacific, your plane climbs noisily and laboriously for about half an hour, then it levels off into steady and less labored flight.

Gradually the intense tropical heat of the ground fades away, and then a chill comes over the cabin. Then the flight orderly turns on the heater, and adjusts it until you are comfortable in your light clothes, even without a jacket.

It was after midnight when we took off from the little island of Kwajalein, in the Marshalls, and we were not to stop again until we reached the Marianas.

Passengers are not allowed to smoke until the plane has stopped climbing and leveled off. Then the flight orderly stands at the head of the cabin and shouts in good Navy language "The smokinglamp is lit," and then brings around paper cups for you to use as ash trays.

About every three hours the flight orderly would wake us up to feed us. Good food, too, and served on trays just as on the regular airlines.

It got to be a joke among the passengers the way they poured food into us. They fed us at every stop, and about every three hours in the air. They nearly fed us to death.

The flight orderly is a sailor who does the same job as a steward on the airlines. We had two crews and two flight orderlies during our long trip, since the same crew stops off half way for a day's rest, and a new crew comes on.

Both our flight orderlies were swell boys. There were 16 passengers of us—12 Navy and Army officers (one a Marine Corps general), three enlisted men, and myself, the only civilian aboard. The orderlies took good care of us, were friendly and willing, treated us all alike, and they weren't a bit scared of the high rank aboard.

They wore plain blue Navy dungarees and blue shirts, and worked with their sleeves rolled up. Our first one was Seaman Howard Liner, of Lubbock, Texas. He used to sell "Dr. Pepper" before he joined the Navy.

Howard has made 36 of these trips across the Pacific, and enjoys it. He gets back to San Francisco frequently, and on his next trip his wife is coming up from Lubbock to see him. Howard always has a little brown pencil stuck behind his ear.

The other flight orderly was Seaman Don Jacobi, of San Gabriel, Cal. He wore a plaited leather belt, and hung from it was a big bunch of keys and a hunting knife in a scabbard. This was his seventh trip.

He seemed quite mature, yet I found he is only 18, and had quit high school to join the Navy. His one ambition is to finish school after the war, and go on to college.

It's mighty tiresome sitting in the same seat on an airplane for nearly 24 hours, even when the seats are reclining ones, as ours were.

The worst part is trying to sleep. You doze for a while and then you start squirming, because you can't stretch your legs out and your knees start to hurt. Consequently those who have traveled a lot by air try to find someplace to lie down. The floor is good, but a stack of mail sacks is better.

They had mail piled in the rear four seats, so I got my blanket and started fixing myself up on the mail bags. And Army colonel ahead of me said "just tried that, but I had to give it up. There are too many square boxes inside the sacks and they stick into you."

But I went ahead, and being smaller than the colonel, discovered I could sort of snake myself in between the hard places in the sacks. And that way I slep most of the journey to the Marianas.

But one funny thing did happen that I'd never experienced before in flying. The plane had quite a bit of vibration, and when my head touched the plane anywhere, the vibration would carry all through my head.

That didn't bother me, but for some odd physiological reason, this vibration made the tip of my nose itch so badly I had to scratch it all the time. And thus I dozed the night away, really only half asleep because of the constant necessity for scratching my nose.

GALLUP POLL

Few Know Balanced Diet Needs

PRINCETON, N. J.—Nutrition experts apparently have a long way to go in educating the American public about healthful daily diets.

This is shown by comparing the diets of a cross-section sample of the adult population during a 24-hour period with a list of essential foods recommended by the Bureau of Home Economics, of the Department of Agriculture, and other nutrition experts.

What the comparison brings out is that a good many Americans every day are failing to meet the basic requirements of a healthful diet, as laid down by the food experts.

While during wartime it is particularly important to maintain a high level of national health, war food shortages, plus increased costs of certain foods, undoubtedly contribute considerably to individual diet deficiencies as revealed in this survey.

The comparison of what people in the survey said they had eaten during the preceding 24 hours with the essential health food list is as follows. The percentages indicate the proportion among the adult population who said they had none at all of the foods listed as necessary daily in each category during the period.

Recommended Daily Diets	How Adult Americans Live Up to Them
Milk or milk products	32% had none
Citrus fruits, tomatoes, or raw greens	46% had none
Green or yellow vegetables	23% had none
Other vegetables or fruits	9% had none
Meat, fish or poultry	9% had none
Eggs	40% had none
Cereal or bread	4% had none
Butter or other fats	22% had none

A comparison of the present survey results with those obtained in a similar survey conducted during a comparable period in 1943 indicates that while over-all, the picture is not encouraging, still there has been some improvement in individual daily diets.

Fewer people are going without milk or milk products, considerably fewer without eggs, even fewer without meats, fish, or poultry than was the case in 1943. This may, of course, be due to the fact that rationing is working fairly well in spreading available products.

Moreover, the facts of rationing and shortages have probably induced housewives to be more carefully selective and to aim more consciously at balance in diets.

Some marked differences are apparent among persons in the different income groups. Those in the lower income groups are more inclined to go without citrus fruits, tomatoes, or raw greens, without yellow or green vegetables, without milk or milk products, without eggs and butter or other fats than are those in the higher income levels.

H. G. WELLS

Declares 'Unconditional Surrender' Idiotic Phrase

LONDON.—This, we are told, is the dawn of the age of common man, and everyone is to be held individually responsible for the good or evil he does or permits his associates to do. Our government and its Allies are applying this new principle to the enemy nations, very thoroughly. Names are being taken, lists of war criminals prepared. It is to be no excuse in our awakening world of free and equal men that their evil deeds were done "under orders." All men now are to be held each and severally answerable for the evil they have done or even sanctioned by their tacit participation.

This, I accept, is a vast and long overdue forward step in the moral emancipation of the world. The master and man social order is definitely at an end. That servile man who did as he was told, whatever it was, who was "disciplined" and used as a mere instrument by anyone who had enlisted his servility, is to be a creature of the past. He may shirk his responsibility no longer. Before the judgment seat he is damned or saved as an individual. He may plead, "I did it under orders." To which the spirit of human emancipation long since made reply, "if you did it unto the least of these you did it unto me."

But let us bear in mind that this belated insistence upon the individual responsibility of war criminals, equally with all other criminals, cut both ways. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. If it applies to the rank and file of the German and Japanese peoples, it must apply with equal force to the British soldiers who are slaughtering Greek patriots, and to every man everywhere who is being employed to suppress the natural upheaval of the forces of creative reconstruction throughout the world. The least he can do is to remove the bullet from his cartridge, the utmost is to point his weapon, as William Tell, had he missed that apple, proposed to do, in the direction his conscience and self-respect indicate.

Remember that this is what we are asking Germans and Japanese to do. "Unconditional surrender," that idiot phrase, means nothing more nor less than downright desertion to one's antagonists. The fighter is to turn against his own people and do as his erstwhile enemies bid him. Do we expect British and American and French soldiers to behave like this? I can't imagine it. Then why should ge expect Germans or Japanese to behave so differently?

And if we do not expect that, then plainly our propaganda to develop enemy defeatism is, in equal measure, atrocious humbug and folly. Humanity may be dirty stuff, but the heroic stresses of this war have burnt a good deal of the dross out of us all. It is no longer rational to "take sides" in this war. Justice must be impartial and universal. The world is one now and cannot be dealt with piecemeal. Mankind is now one universal brotherhood or a vast hopeless confusion of mean and petty motives and evasions. There is no self-respect now possible for a man unless he is prepared to treat every race and sort and color and cult of human beings with an equal respect. That is the reality of the new world, and the sooner we learn to clean our minds of every sort of superiority cant and every dirty trick of sheltering behind creeds, confessions, churches, leaders, pseudo-"loyalties," heil Churchill, heil Hitler and the like, the better for mankind and the better for ourselves.

And now: What about that bullet they have put in your rifle? What are you going to do with it?

BOB HOPE

It Says Here

SAVANNAH, Ga.—There we were in Miami praying for good weather so that we could fly up and put on a show for the men at Chatham Army Field. Of course, the odds were against us. All the men at Chatham Field were praying for bad weather. But we finally made it. Col. "Nick" Necrasen got through and flew us up here. The colonel, by the way, is only 32 years old. He would have been a general, but he couldn't get his parents' consent.

Yes, sir, these high ranking officers nowadays are really young. Col. Massey, the C. O. at Chatham Field, insisted I put my show on in one of the large hangars. They said "no matter how big the eggs are that will handle 'em. I ate lunch at the airfield and it was wonderful. They told me I could have all the butter I wanted . . . but I learned my lesson. That stuff doesn't keep well in your pockets. After lunch the soldiers told me that Savannah was the home of Johnny Mercer and asked me over to their barracks for a crap game. I didn't get the connection at first, but then they "accentuated the positive and I wound up negative 50 dollars.

Rites for Trio, Fire Victims, Held at Camilla

CAMILLA, Ga., Feb. 19.—Funeral services were held here Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Felix Orvice Bullard, and their granddaughter, Elaine Chapman, who were fatally burned at their home in Monticello, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullard were former residents of Camilla. They had moved to Monticello from Quincy, Fla., only a short time before the accident which cost their lives. According to reports given out by relatives here, Mr. Bullard was starting a fire in an open fireplace and either mistook a can of tractor gas for some other fluid, or accidentally used too much of it. A blast followed. Mr. and Mrs. Bullard and their 14-month-old grandchild, all victims of the fire, were carried to a Thomasville hospital for treatment, but they died within a few hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullard are survived by seven children, Mrs. Alvin Sirmons, Homestead, Fla.; Mrs. Harry Beatty, Monticello, Fla.; Mrs. Frederick Chapman, Monticello; S. Sgt. James Truitt Bullard, with the U. S. Army on the western front; Pvt. Felix O. Bullard, en route overseas; Belle Gene Bullard, Homestead, Fla.; Margaret Bullard, Monticello.

Short Course On Livestock Set At University

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 19.—Continuing the policy of the College of Agriculture at the University of Georgia to give service to farmers and agricultural interests in the state, a livestock short course will be offered here Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 26-27, Dean Paul W. Chapman announces.

"Short courses do not come under the ban on conventions; they are considered an aid to the war effort," Dr. Chapman declared. "These programs have been approved by the Office of Defense Transportation in Washington."

From the standpoint of gross income, livestock and livestock products yield more new wealth annually than any other branch of agriculture, according to Dr. M. P. Jarnagin, head of the department of animal husbandry. "A real national meat shortage is in sight, and this short course is a part of the effort which must be made to increase production in this section," he said.

The latest information dealing with the breeding, feeding, management and selection of foundation breeding stock will be presented by outstanding experts in these problems. Livestock farmers, county agents, agriculture teachers, packing plant and stockyard managers have been invited to attend the course, Dr. Jarnagin declared.

Judging of livestock will be demonstrated by Dr. A. W. Darlow, head of the animal husbandry department, Oklahoma A. and M. College. He served as judge last year for two national Hereford shows in Atlanta and many livestock farmers in the state remember him for his participation in those events, Dr. Jarnagin stated.

A demonstration in parasite-control will be conducted by Ray L. Cuff, regional manager, National Livestock Loss Prevention Board, Kansas City, Mo. One of the outstanding speakers at last year's short course, Cuff has been requested to return for the 1945 session by pouular demand.

Dr. Paul Swaffar, of the Virginia Extension Service, Blacksburg, Va., is another featured speaker. Now on leave of absence to the Virginia Beef Producers' Association, Dr. Swaffar works intensively with beef cattle.

THANKS TO RUSSIA

Nazi-Held Georgian Hikes to Freedom

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Numerous American prisoners of the Germans have been liberated by the Russian offensive despite frantic Nazi efforts to march them westward.

Their numbers have not yet been estimated, but the fact of their freedom was reported today by three escaped American officers who hitch-hiked across Poland and part of Russia as the adventurous vanguard of the others heading home by more conventional means.

Two other Georgians were among those freed from the Szubin camp. They are Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, captured on the Western front last fall while on assignment with his paper, and Lt. Adam B. Young, whose wife lives in Columbus. Gilmore reported that 27 Americans were in the group of men liberated. A later dispatch indicated there might be more, but other names have not been made available.

The three are Capt. Ernest M. Gruenberg, 29, of New York city, a doctor in the 101st Airborne Division; Lt. Frank H. Colley, 29, of Washington, Ga., a member of the 17th Field Artillery, and Lt. John N. Demling Jr., 30, of Winston-Salem, N. C., a member of the 30th Infantry.

These men along with numerous others are from the German prison camp Oflag 64 at Szubin, Poland, between Poznan and Bydgoszcz.

Gruenberg was captured in Normandy, Colley in Tunisia and Demling on the Anzio beachhead.

On Jan. 21, 1945, the Germans herded the American officers who were able to walk out of the camp and started them west just ahead of the drive by Marshal Zhukov's First White Russian army group.

The sick and wounded were left behind, but they now are in safe hands.

"We got out as best we could," said Gruenberg, who was an interne in St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington, D. C., before the war.

"Some of us built little sleds but most of us had to carry our stuff on our backs."

The officers said for several days before they hurried off they saw the road which passes the camp choked full of German civilians fleeing westward. There also were many Poles among them, apparently being forceably taken to Germany.

"We strung in with them—us and our German guard," said Colley. "It was some scene and mind you, this wasn't a main road, but a secondary road."

Asked for an estimate of the number of refugees, Gruenberg said, "I would say there were thousands upon thousands of them."

"Did the German civilians mind you being mixed in their refugee column?" he was asked.

"Oh, a couple of women cursed us," said the doctor. "But the Poles let us hitch our sleds and carts to their wagons. They gave us a wink."

This strange column of frightened, fat German housewives, perspiring male civilians, minor members fo the Nazi party, Polish slaves and several hundred U. S. officers in uniform slowed down near a manor estate on which had recently been living one Baron von Rosen from the Baltic country. The Germans had taken the estate from a Pole and installed the baron in charge.

More Turkeys Urged in State

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 19.—Approximately 325,000 more turkeys are needed in Georgia to meet home demands, according to J. C. Bell, head of the poultry department at the University of Georgia. Bell reported to the board of regents that "of the 500,000 turkeys consumed in the state last year, only about 175,000 were raised in Georgia."

Bell suggested that turkey raising should be a community project as turkey buyers prefer to purcase turkeys at a designated production area rather than over scattered areas. When production is limited to a concentrated area, the construction of processing plants is encouraged and better marketing practices are followed.

From 75 to 100 pounds of feed is required to produce a turkey to maturity. Bell pointed out that at least half of this feed can be produced on Georgia farms. The bulk of it is made up of the grains, such as corn, wheat, oats and barley. Cost of production can be reduced at least 30 per cent when the feed is grown on the farm.

Persons interested in going into turkey production should figure that it will cost about $5 to produce a bird to maturity. Georgia's climate is well suited for the production of baby turkeys, which can be hatched in the south earlier than in most other sections. About 30 weeks are required to produce a turkey to maturity.

The only housing necessary is for brooding. After the poults are 8 to 10 weeks of age, they can be placed on the range where the only equipment necessary is feeders, waterers and roosts, Bell says.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backach and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

Veterans' Postwar Notebook

(Sixth in a series on the federal program for veterans' benefits, condensed from Leatherneck, Marine Corps magazine.)

DEPENDENTS' BENEFITS

There is little the government has overlooked to air your dependents. Most contingencies have been covered, from special burial allowances to assistance in obtaining jobs for widows or wives of disabled veterans. Most important benefits are listed below, but affected persons should not overlook the Veterans' Administration branches, where advice on unusual cases may be obtained.

Wives and widows of disabled veterans are given certain preferences for positions in the United States Civil Service. Special assistance will be provided by the local offices of the United States Employment Service and local veterans' employment representatives.

When a member or former member of the armed forces dies of a service-connected disability, his widow, children and dependent parents may file claims for pension with the Veterans' Administration.

Pensions are paid by the Veterans' Administration to dependents of a member of the armed forces who dies of a service-connected disability, as follows: To a widow where there is no child, $50 a month. To a widow with one child, $65 per month and $13 for each additional child. Where there is no widow, to one child, $25 monthly; to two children, $38, and $10 for each additional child, the total being divided equally. As to widows and/or children, the total monthly payment may not exceed $100. A dependent mother or father may receive $45 per month. If both claim pension, each receives $25 a month.

If a veteran with a service-connected disability dies of other causes and his widow and/or children are in need, they may receive from the Veterans' Administration the following pensions: Widow, $35 a month; widow with one child, $45 and $5 for each additional child; one orphan child, $18; two orphans, $27; three orphans, $36 with $4 a month additional for each additional orphan, the total to be equally divided. Total monthly payments may not exceed $64 and these pensions may not be paid to a widow without children, or an orphan, whose income exceeds $1,000, nor to a widow with a child or children whose income exceeds $2,500 per year.

Upon the death of a veteran, next of kin should immediately notify the Director of Insurance, Veterans' Administration, who will forward all necessary blanks to the beneficiary. In National Service Life Insurance, payment will be made in 240 equal monthly payments if the beneficiary is under 30 years of age; or in equal monthly installments for life, if beneficiary is 30 or over.

Disabled dependents of employable age may secure through the State Rehabilitation Agency special training to prepare for jobs.

Death of a serviceman while in active service (not as a result of his own misconduct) entitles his widow to a cash payment equal to six months' pay. If no widow, payment is made to surviving children; if no children, then to the dependent relative named.

So long as servicemen are prisoners of war, interned in a neutral country or missing in action, dependents will receive family allowances and allotments. Payments stop with death of servicemen, regardless of circumstance.

(Tomorrow: Mustering Out Pay)

FOOD IDEAS

By SALLY SAVER.

Poach eggs in tomato sauce or in hot gravy and serve on toast for luncheon or supper; or serve poached eggs in nests of spinach, curried rice, or on vegetable hash.

Cut thick crosswise slices from large seedless oranges, trim off the peel, dip the slices in honey and then in chopped nuts—any kind. Place these nut-coated slices on beds of shredded lettuce and serve with French dressing.

Winter cabbage is good raw and cooked. There are a number of ways of making coleslaw, but in all of them the cabbage should be shredded or chopped very fine. It may be shredded with a sharp knife or on a slaw cutter. The latter is recommended if you serve much of this food. Or the cabbage may be chopped in the food chopper. French dressing, sour cream, cooked salad dressing or bacon dressing are generally used. Combinations of cabbage and apples, pineapple, tomatoes or almost any other vegetables are used also.

Hot slaw is less generally known but it is delicious. Cut the cabbage in shreds, cover with boiling salted water and boil for 5 minutes. Drain immediately and put in a frying pan with 2 or 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons sugar, pepper to season, and 3 tablespoons butter, margarine or bacon drippings. Cover and cook for 15 minutes. One and one-half pounds cabbage should be allowed for 6 servings.

Is lumpy cereal one of the major calamities in your household? If so, see that the water used for cereal is boiling rapidly when you start, then pour the cereal slowly into the boiling water, stirring it constantly and continue the stirring until the mixture is boiling hard after all the cereal has been added.

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

("I never dreamed that anything would ever spoil my beautiful marriage," Harmon's wife tearfully informed me not three months after my conversation with him, "but now I find he is infatuated with a girl at the office.")

CASE E-292: Harmon G., aged 41, is a successful professional man.

"I have one pet peeve and it pertains to my wife," he began, as we attended a men's luncheon a few months ago.

"She will doll up fit to kill when she expects to go to her bridge club or has a dental appointment.

"But she wears the sloppiest clothes around the house! We are fairly well off financially and I have repeatedly urged her to wear colorful frocks in the morning.

"I've seen wash dresses in the store windows that didn't cost but a few dollars, yet looked very bright and cheerful. But she feels it would be wasteful to wear such dresses when she has old clothes to throw away.

WANTS COMPETITION

"What she doesn't realize, of course, is the fact that I am trying to coax her into appearing more seductive to me.

"If she fully realized that I am surrounded by seductive secretaries at the office at 9 a. m., maybe she'd try to doll up a little before I leave at 8:30 in the morning.

"The contrast between her somewhat plump, shoddily dressed figure with runners in her hose, is very pronounced half an hour later when I meet the sylph-like females in the office, trim and attractively garbed.

"It would really be cheap insurance for holding me from straying, if only she realized my wavering state of mind. But despite my urging and tactful endeavor to get her to fight fire with fire, she goes along oblivious of the danger threatening our marriage."

DIAGNOSIS

You can understand all the chemistry of digestion and appreciate the difference between fats, carbohydrates and proteins, but this superior knowledge still will not eliminate your hunger for three square meals per day.

In like manner, you may learn the psychology of the menopause and be able to recognize the symptoms in yourself, but your desire doesn't disappear because of such information.

Harmon's case today should be a warning to thousands of you wives whose husbands have passed the age of 35 or are growing rather indifferent and inattentive.

The man who pays the bills and places a wedding band on your third finger is the fellow you wives better pay more attention to and doll up for. Don't be pennywise and pound foolish.

Why look shoddy at 8:30 a. m. to save a few dollars on colorful washable frocks, and lose your husband to a painted doll at 9 o'clock the same morning? Fight fire with fire, and fight harder after you pass 40, or have added more than 15 pounds extra weight since your wedding day.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs, when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

In the New York spring fashion shows jewelry was seen to be swinging away from the one large lapel piece toward several smaller pieces worn like real jewelry. The photograph gives the idea; three pink gold butterflies of graduating sizes are worn like a necklace on a plain dress. Just about the most striking and amusing jewelry arrangement I observed was a whole family of bejeweled owls, five or more of them, in carying sizes. These were pinned close together on one shoulder.

Glimpses of HOLLYWOOD

Dana To Freelance When Contract Ends

HOLLYWOOD.—Dana Andrews and Sam Goldwyn are having a few words because Sam wants to re-sign Dana to another contract when his present deal expires next year. And Dana says, "No," he'd rather freelance. He'll probably be in the Army, anyway, as he has just been reclassified 1-A. Dana tells me he has been in Hollywood 16 years and that it took him nine years to break into pictures! I think this is a record—of endurance.

John Garfield was asked to co-star with Judy Garland in "The Harvey Girls." "I said 'no'," John relates. "I was scared. When Judy opens her mouth to sing, no one will look at me!" which is being honest, anyway! Garfield is another whose seven-year contract is about to expire. He says he will re-sign with Warners if he gets the same deal as Bette Davis and Errol Flynn—the right to produce (nominally) one picture a year with a percentage of the profits. With Flynn, Bogart and Miss Emerson all making the headlines (in funny ways) for Warners, Garfield now refers to himself as the "good" boy of Burbank. "I lead a monastical—is that right?—sort of life," Garfield concludes.

Talking about Miss Emerson—who, by the way, is a swell girl, most of the theaters are now billing her in "The Very Thought of You," above Eleanor Parker and Dennis Morgan. Before she became front page news, Faye was at the bottom in the listing. . . . Helmut Dantine wears normal clothes for the first time in his screen career in "Shadow of a Woman." Hitherto you have seen Helmut in a uniform—Nazi—or a fugitive's get-up. "Now," says Dantine, "I wear a tuxedo, and even swimming trunks. And Warners had me measured for all my sports clothes," pointing to his ill-fitting sports suit!

Betty Grable tells all who will listen—and this mama will—that her 11-months-old Victoria Elizabeth has "very beautiful legs." The news angle would be if she didn't. . . . Joan Crawford's contract at Warners calls for them to supply her with nylon stockings to wear in her picture, "Mildred Pierce." "And it's nylon all the way up to the top," says Joan, showing me where the precious material ends. At night, before going home, Joan returns the nylons and puts on her own cottons, and she doesn't see them again until the next morning. They presumably spend the night in the studio safe! . . . Dick Haymes brings his coachman's dog (like a Dalmatian, but not so big and with brown spots) to the studio for the first time, and the animal cowers and shivers. "You can shoot a gun off in his ear and he doesn't wince," says the mystified owner. But a studio is much more frightening.

The food shortage has hit the studios and for an eating scene in "State Fair," they are using papier mache buns and papier mache hot dogs! This is hard on the extras who used to fill up on movie food. . . . Ella Raines caught her current bad cold after going through an Army hospital ward for flu and cold victims. After visiting another ward, Ella asked the Colonel with her, "And what is this ward for?" "Measles and mumps," replied the intrepid military man. . . . Dorothy Lamour is now down to a shadowy 112 pounds and has been warned by her cameraman to stop losing weight. It's beginning to show on her face on the screen. But her clothes certainly look lovely on the new figure.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Use care in health matters and in dealings with friends previous to 11:29 a. m. It may be difficult to reach any definite decision this morning. After 11:29 a. m. you may have an inclination to take on too much work.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Things started previous to 10:28 a. m. should react in your favor. This should be a favorable period to take care of home and financial matters. After 10:28 a. m. work along conservative and well laid plans.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—The influences prevailing today do not favor entering into anything that is indefinite, or that is not thoroughly for too quick action on your part may easily bring losses.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Optimism and cheerfulness surrounds transactions undertaken today. You are likely to receive benefits through friends due to your past efforts in some unexpected way. After 8:38 p. m. use caution in travel and avoid any tendency to rush.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO)—Before 7:47 a. m. no chances should be taken that can be avoided. Use care in travel and avoid discussions. After 8:38 p. m. you can promote stable plans with assured success.

Aug. 23-Sept 22 (VIRGO)—There will be a lessening of tension both in your personal feelings and in dealings with others today. Before 9:11 p. m. you can deal with serious minded people advantageously and your mind will feel at ease when concentrating on the work at hand.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—Plan your entire day and do not allow yourself to slip into laxness. Vagueness or dealing with people who are undecided will not bring you profit. After 5:32 p. m. your emotions and feelings should be completely held in check.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—Activity and the mental energy of yourself and those around you will be keen the entire day, but your judgment will not be reliable. Therefore, not a favorable day for making important decisions, agreements or contracts.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—A favorable day for making friends with older and conservative people, for contacting those who are dependable and steadfast. An excellent time for the promotion of plans that have been in the making for some time.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—Unless careful thought is given to your undertakings previous to 12:17 noon, you will very likely meet with little cooperation from others. After 12:17 noon is an excellent time to start new enterprises that have been carefully planned.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—Before 5:29 p. m. be deliberate and careful in your activities. You will benefit through associations with intellectual people and pursuits. The evening hours bring influences that tend towards rashness and taking undue risks.

Feb. 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Throughout the entire day until 7:38 p. m. use care in dealing with older people. Pay attention to finances and avoid undue chances where money is concerned. The evening hours favor pleasures, friendships, art, music.

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

Bob Hope, who has been the recipient of many awards for outstanding achievement in the radio and movie fields, will be on the "dishing out" end of things tonight, when he passes out the Look magazine awards to outstanding stars, directors and producers of 1944 at 9 p. m. over WSB.

The presentation will take place before a star-spangled audience of movie notables and GIs at the Cathy Circle theater in Los Angeles. The names of those who will receive the coveted awards, made annually by the picture magazine, will be kept secret until the formal presentation. Only the persons to be honored will know of the choice, and they only because their attendance is necessary. . . .

Rozalind Russell, one of the American theater's loveliest ladies, and certainly one of its most talented comediennes, will have the leading role in a special radio dramatization of S. N. Berman's popular play, "Biography," when it is presented over the Columbia network and WGST at 8:30 p. m. . . .

Another of the "This Is My Best" series, "Biography" is built around the career of an average American girl who becomes a successful portrait painter and attracts numerous celebrities. A young publisher asks her to write her biography and include anecdotes about the famous people she knows.

A western thriller—horse opera to most city slickers—will be the Theater of Romance's presentation for tonight, and lovely Claire Trevor will play the starring role. The play is titled "Destry Rides Again." . . . The show is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. over WGST. . . . The story tells about the rip-roaring romance between Frenchy, a glamorous singer and hostess in a western town, and the town's sheriff, Tom Destry. . . .

Camellia Study Group Gives Luncheon To Honor Mr. Wilby

The members of the Camellia Study Group entertained at luncheon in Rich's Magnolia room yesterday in compliment to Robert B. Wilby, well known authority on camellia culture, with Mrs. Willard Patterson, one of the sponsors of the group, as hostess.

A feature of the luncheon was the distribution of an attractive brochure of Mr. Wilby's treatise on camellia culture to each of the members, the brochure having been prepared by Mrs. Patterson with Mrs. Wilby's permission. The luncheon was an expression of appreciation for the use of the treatise, which is considered the finest thing written about the growing of camellias in this area.

A special guest at the luncheon was Eugene Schofield Heath, well-known botanist and horticulturist, who is the director of the Camellia Study Group, which was organized last December by a few Atlantans who had expressed an interest in the growing of camellias. The membership includes among others Mr. Wilby, Mrs. Edgar Paullin, Mrs. T. C. Erwin and Claude M. Frederick, who have achieved unusual success along this line.

The group has no dues and no regular meetings. It meets about once each month, with the program committee, composed of Mrs. Fletcher Crown, Mrs. Carl Lewis and Harry S. McCowen, arranging the program.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Original 'Gibson Girl' Plates Owned by Mrs. Foster Hume

Mrs. Foster Hume's home on Habersham road is a veritable treasure chest, filled with rare and beautiful china, furniture, paintings and objects of art. Many of her possessions were inherited from members of her family. Still others were given to her when, as Carobel Trabue, of Nashville, Tenn., she became the bride of Mr. Hume. Others she has found in her travels and purchased for herself.

But among Mrs. Hume's most unique treasures is a set of Royal Doulton service plates which she purchased in Memphis, Tenn., in 1905. They are white English china, decorated in blue scroll design, the center of each plate bearing the likeness of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, wife of the noted artist, whose untimely death occurred only recently. All 12 of the plates carry a different scene, with Mrs. Gibson, the former Irene Langhorne, of Virginia, and sister of Lady Astor, as the center of attraction. She, you will recall, served as the model for the beautiful "Gibson Girl," glorified and made famous by her husband early in the twentieth century. The pictures measure five by six inches and are reproduced from photographs used in Life Magazine in 1900-1901, and done by Mr. Gibson.

One shows a widow in the cemetery, with a caption underneath which says, in effect, that she finds little consolation in her strolls. Another pictures a beautiful dinner table at which lovely Mrs. Gibson is sitting, with the gentlemen showering her with attention and utterly ignoring the other women present. Beneath, the caption says: "Some think she remained in retirement too long. Others are surprised that she is about so soon."

All of the pictures dwell on Mrs. Gibson's beauty and popularity and depict swains flocking after her wherever she may go.

On various occasions, when Mr. and Mrs. Hume have entertained at dinner parties, the guests have been so fascinated by the plates that they have passed them around, so that everyone present could see the entire set.

While there may be more of this handsome china in existence, Mrs. Hume has never heard of it. Many of her friends have suggested that she place hers in a museum but, as yet, the plates still grace the charming Hume home.

CALL FROM MORTON DOWNEY

When Morton Downey was in town last week for his appearance on a well-known soft drink radio program, though he was here for only two hours he took time out to call Mrs. Zach Layfield and tell her about seeing her son, Zach Jr., in France.

It seems that Mr. Downey was resting from a strenuous tour of Army entertainment at a hospital in southern France in order to recuperate from a throat ailment. Zach, an Army major who has been overseas about three years, was sent by chance to the same hospital to recover from a deep-seated cold contracted while with his motor unit in Paris, where living conditions are rather cold and disagreeable. He and the radio star were bunked in the same room, and as Zach expressed it in a letter to his mother, he could never have found a more congenial companion.

Mr. Downey also took time during his brief stay to call Zach's wife, the former Elizabeth Randall, to tell her that her husband had fully recovered and was looking well and fit.

BRIDE WEARS FAMILY HEIRLOOM

When Lt. Melville Brown wrote his mother, Mrs. George T. Brown, that he was going to be married to Jean Beveridge, of Jerome, Idaho, Mrs. Brown sent his pretty bride-elect one of her most prized family heirlooms—an old-fashioned gold brooch set in pearls, with gold tassels lending it grace and distinction. The brooch originally belonged to Mrs. Joseph E. Brown, wife of Georgia's war governor, and it was given to Melville's mother by the owner's son, the late Julius Brown.

When Jean and Melville were married a week ago at the First Presbyterian church in Jerome, the lovely bride wore the heirloom as the "something old" in her wedding ensemble.

Melville, who is an Army Air Force bombardier, was reported missing in action, you will recall, during the invasion of Guadalcanal, and subsequently spent many months in hospitals in New Zealand and Miami, Fla. Following his recovery, he was reassigned as as instructor at the Mountain Home (Idaho) Army Air Base, and it was there that he met his bride. His brother officers at the post chose a novel manner of sending their gifts to the bridal pair. They took an empty bomb shell, filled it with beautifully wrapped packages, loaded it on a truck, and delivered it at Jean's home.

Miss Kelly, Fiance Tell Wedding Plans

The marriage of Miss Sarah Alice Kelly and Ens. Harold Leigh Johnson, USNR, will take place on Feb. 25 at the First Baptist church in East Point at 4:30 o'clock. Dr. W. A. Duncan will perform the ceremony. Mrs. Minyon Simpson will preside at the organ, and Miss Nandel Johnson will be soloist.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, T. J. Kelly Sr. Leonard Eiseman will act as best man, and the usher-groomsmen will be Cpl. Sam Hahs, Misses Sara Fowler, Juanita Lowe and Jeane Blackstock.

Following the wedding, the bride-elect's parents will entertain at a reception at their home on Woodland circle in East Point.

Miss Annette Richardson Wed to Pvt. Ralph A. Ayers

At a recent candlelight ceremony taking place at Park Street Methodist church, Miss Dorothy Annette Richardson became the bride of Pvt. Ralph Allen Ayers, Dr. E. Nash Broyles, pastor, officiating. The musical program was presented by Mrs. E. E. Aiken, organist, and Miss Marjorie Noah, soloist.

The altar of the church was flanked with palms and decorated with a tall pedestal baskets filled with calla lilies and white gladioli.

The maid of honor was the bride's only sister, Lt. Margaret Richardson, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. She wore a blue taffeta model, featuring a bustle, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pastel flowers, with yellow predominating and tied with yellow ribbon. She wore a crescent spray of the similiar flowers in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Miss Jerry Glover, of Quitman, and Miss Mays Jolley, cousin of the groom, wore dresses fashioned like Lt. Richardson's. They carried pastel bouquets tied with rainbow ribbons.

The groomsmen were Edward B. Parker, of Brunswick; C. E. Deloach Jr., of Athens; Cadet Tom Rollow, U. S. N. R., and Cadet Joe Richardson, U. S. N. R., brother of the bride. The groom's father, Dr. A. J. Ayers, was best man.

The lovely young bride was given in marriage by her father, Joseph Lee Richardson. She was gowned in ivory satin trimmed in corded scalloping. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was caught to her hair with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was centered with an orchid. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried an imported lace handkerchief which her cousin, Mrs. Richard Martin Dexter, carried in her wedding.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home on Lexington avenue. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. The bride's book was kept by Mrs. Hal Reid. Assisting in entertaining was a group of the bride's Kappa Delta sorority sisters from the University of Georgia, Misses Dorothy Anne Alexander Frances Foster and Eva Mae Rheney.

The bridal couple left for the Cloister at Sea Island for their honeymoon. The bride wore for traveling an original model of moss green wool, with brown accessories and purple orchids.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Big Dollars, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Paschal Called For Army Exam

By JACK TROY,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Billy Paschal, leading ground gainer of the National league for the last two seasons, has been ordered by his draft board to report to Fort McPherson for a physical examination, The Constitution learned yesterday.

Paschal, who has been serving in the U. S. Maritime Service at Sheepshead Bay, New York, is being removed from that branch of the service.

In a previous physical examination, prior to entering the Maritime service, Paschal was placed in limited service, due to a football knee and flat feet.

A fellow National leaguer, Frankie Sinkwich, who has served in the Maritime service and the Marines, recently was ordered to report for another physical by his Youngstown (Ohio) board. Final results of Sinkwich's latest examination have not been reported.

PASCHAL AND SON, BILLY

Billy Paschal said yesterday: "It's true I played football on Sundays and had not shipped out to sea. But I was available for sea duty at all times. I was assigned to be a warrant mate. If my services are more sorely needed in another phase of the war effort, I'll be happy to do anything I can."

As a member of Steve Owen's New York Giants, Paschal, although handicapped by a knee injury both seasons, led all the ground gainers of the National league for two straight years, thereby setting a record.

Since the season's close, Paschal continued in the Maritime service until recently. He is with his family here, awaiting an Army physical later this month.

Sports Likely To Improve At Pittsburgh

New Chancellor 'Athletic Minded,' Wants To Win

By ELAINE KAHN

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The University of Pittsburgh's athletic policy, designed to "purify" athletics and de-emphasize football, might be in for some changes with the appointment of a sports-minded chancellor who admittedly "likes to win."

Dr Rufus Fitzgerald, successor to Dr. John Bowman who resigned to become Pitt's president, is an ardent sports fan and a frequent spectator at Pitt games.

"I can steel myself as long as the record is 50-50," he once told a student football rally, "but when it gets below that, I don't like it."

Pitt's record in the last six years of the "Bowman code" has been considerably below that. Since the stormy resignation of Coach Jock Sutherland in 1939 and introduction of the code, the school's football fortunes have steadily declined.

The teams that went thrice to the Rose Bowl and refused a fourth bid in 1937, and contributed 11 All-American selections in 13 years, disappeared with the de-emphasis program.

Fitzgerald, a quite soft-spoken man, is not new to big-time athletics. He once served as athletic director and basketball coach at the University of Tennessee and spent some time at Iowa University.

He is emphatic in his belief in sports.

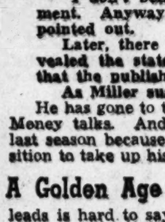

"I certainly am a fan," he said today. "I'm a strong believer in athletics and the discipline the young men and women get from them—they learn to lose as well as to win and that's a good thing."

Two years ago, when name-Coach Clark Shaughnessy was brought to the university to revive football, Fitzgerald referred to the move as "the reconstruction period" at Pitt.

The war has temporarily set back any "re-emphasis" plans, but, although both Fitzgerald and Bowman decline to discuss future athletic policies, it would seem that athletics are slated to play a major role in the postwar University of Pittsburgh.

ALL IN THE GAME
JACK TROY

New Assignment Many of Bob Miller's friends have been in the dark since announcement of coaching changes at Georgia Tech. Only the changes were announced. Since it has caused some confusion, it's only fair to all parties concerned to name the full staff.

Bob Miller, who coached the line through three bowl seasons, will have a new assignment. Bob's main job at Georgia Tech is assistant professor in the chemical engineering department. He has only limited time for coaching. His engineering duties have increased.

In arranging his staff for his first season as head coach, Dodd wanted a line coach who could devote full time to football, who was thoroughly familiar with the T formation and, frankly, who could get out in the spring and summer and contact prospects.

Miller's assignment has merely been changed from line coach to assistant football coach. He is to work with the B team, teach them fundamentals and install the attack of the team Tech's playing each week.

There's a strong possibility, we hear, that Roy McArthur may be back to help Miller with that phase of the coaching.

Miller's service as line coach was highly satisfactory. Two All-America linemen, a guard, Bob Sieber, and end, Phil Tinsley, and three bowl teams in three years of active connection with the varsity is a record that has legs and can walk.

Norris Dean will coach and scout, as usual. Joe Pittard will handle his old duties. Only one man, Raymond Ellis, was added to the staff. The Madisonville, Ky., high school veteran will devote all his time to line coaching duties. Dwight Keith's elevation to the post of backfield coach completed the setup.

Wrestling Coach, Too Bobby Dodd was out of the city yesterday, Athletic Director W. A. Alexander explained that "Miller also is being retained as wrestling coach. He's a good man. His salary will remain unchanged." Miller handles wrestling in off hours.

First impressions are often lasting. First time we had occasion really to know Miller was during the 1943 football season. We had challenged a statement of Paul Brown, of Ohio State, was alleged to have made about southern football. The wire services quoted Brown to the effect that football below the Mason and Dixon line was mediocre.

Normally a quiet individual, Miller, an Ohio State graduate and acquaintance of Brown, didn't hesitate to defend his friend.

"I don't believe Brown would have made such a statement. Anyway, you'd like him if you knew him," Miller pointed out.

Later, there was a chance meeting with Brown. He revealed the statement had been made by an assistant and that the published report was news to him.

As Miller suggested, Brown was a very likable fellow.

He has gone to the pro ranks now and Ohio State may miss him. Money talks. And no one can blame Brown. He missed all of last season because of Navy service. And he will not be in a position to take up his pro coaching duties until released by the Navy.

A Golden Age This is the golden age for teen-age youngsters of baseball ability. Just where the road leads is hard to say. It may be difficult to find a stopping point.

Major and minor league representatives, scanning the American Legion field for young players who can do anything of promise, are expending incredible sums to get the names of the youths on baseball contracts.

A season ago when Dick Callahan, a high school boy of New Orleans, was signed for $15,000 by the Boston Red Sox, a great clamor was raised.

"Who can meet such competition?" other club owners questioned.

Now, since the ban on signing American Legion players has been lifted by Acting Baseball Commissioner Leslie O'Connor, fancy sums are being paid for signed contracts.

Even richer minor league teams, to meet the competition of the major invaders, are expending anywhere from $6,000 on up to sign the better young prospects.

Such action as this certainly ought to encourage high school and college baseball.

Just a few short seasons ago the baseball rivals of Detroit screamed in indignation when Dick Wakefield, of Michigan, was given $50,000, plus an automobile for his mother, to sign with the Tigers. (Wakefield, back in the Navy now, has justified the outlay of bonus cash.)

Wartimes simply have proved that youngsters have more ability than their elders previously would admit. In college football, it has been clearly shown that a freshman year is often a waste of time for the more accomplished high school graduate of football ability.

The gap between freshman and varsity football, once thought too tough to bridge, has been proved so much fallacy. So, too, has the old theory that an amateur had to have a great deal of experience to play professional baseball.

This all may change somewhat in normal times. But it will never be the same again. There'll be more opportunity for youngsters.

Snead Beats Nelson, 1 Up, On 19th Hole

GULFPORT, Miss., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Slammin' Sammy Snead, the golfer from Hot Springs, Va., scored a par 4 on the 19th hole here today to break a tie with Byron Nelson, of Toledo, Ohio, in their scheduled 18-hole play-off and win the Gulfport $5,000 open golf championship by one stroke.

The players were tied at par 71 at the end of 18 holes.

Hockey Teams In Mad Battle

By the Associated Press.

The scramble for the last playoff berth in the National Hockey league still is a three-cornered affair. Although the Boston Bruins hold the edge both the New York Rangers and the Chicago Blackhawks stayed in the running over the weekend.

The Rangers bounced back from a 6-1 Saturday night licking at Boston to whip the Bruins, 2 to 1, before 14,446 at Madison Square Garden. The victory, featured by the many spectacular saves of Ken McAuley, New York goalie, put the Rangers again within hailing distance of the Bruins, 30 points to 26.

Playing the league-leading Montreal Canadians to a scoreless tie before 15,314 Chicago fans, the Blackhawks pulled within four points of the Rangers. They still have a chance to make up the eight points separating them from fourth place.

Detroit virtually clinched second place by whipping the Toronto Maple Leafs, 6 to 1, before a sellout crowd of 12,582 at Detroit. The Red Wings haven't lost to Toronto since March 14, 1943.

JAP IS OUT TRYING TO 'STEAL HOME'

MANILA, Feb. 17.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The Japanese officer should have known you can't steal home on the Yanks.

During the fighting for Manila's big baseball park the Yanks were in the outfield and the Japs at bat, holding the stands and home plate. During the lull in fighting a Japanese officer wearing a sword blithely walked out into clear view to third base. When the firing started the Japanese officer made a dash for home. He was out—for keeps—by the proverbial mile.

450 Card Players In Armed Services

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Pres. Sam Breadon of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals thinks baseball deserves praise for its contribution to the war effort.

Saying that over 450 men from the Cardinal organization have gone into the armed forces, some of them becoming casualties, he declared emphatically: "I know of no club official or ball player who has asked any favors from his draft board or examining board.

"I think when thought is given to what baseball has done, instead of criticism we merit praise."

Employe Cutback Seen at Shipyard

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP)—S. W. Prassel, personnel chief for the J. A. Jones Shipyards, said today that the firm's employment cutback program in which about 4,200 workers are being released, would be completed "in the next two weeks."

Prassel said the reduction in employment was occasioned by a War Production Board materials allocation under which the yard will be able to turn out fewer ships per month. The new production schedule goes into effect March 5, he said.

On Jan. 1 of this year, Prassel said, the yard was employing 13,262 workers as compared with 9,401 as of today. The latter figure should be reduced to roughly 9,000 by March 5, Prassel added, figuring a reduction of about 200 per week due to chronic absences, normal turnover and other causes.

He explained that under the "fixed amount" of materials program, 9,000 workers would be all the yard needed for "an efficient, economical working group."

In an Associated Press story from Atlanta last week, it was erroneously reported that 9,000 workers would be released by the yards here. The War Manpower Commission release on which the story was based said the employment rolls of the yards would be reduced "to" 9,000, not "by" 9,000 as the story appeared in print.

Much Meat Canned In Lamar County

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 19.—Lamar county families are getting ready for the predicted shortage of meat in 1945. According to a report made by Mrs. Mary A. Brown, Lamar county home demonstration agent, 17 families here canned 1,498 cans of beef, pork and chicken at the community cannery on the courthouse grounds. Other farmers have canned at home an estimated 2,000 quarts.

A number of pork raisers have expressed their intention of killing, grinding into sausage and canning some of these shoats too large to carry over to next winter, Mrs. Brown stated.

The cannery will be open every Wednesday as long as there is a need for it.

STOCK SALES

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—New highs for more than seven years were widely distributed in today's market as idle investment funds continued to seek employment in actual or potential dividend payers.

Rails, steels and motors took the lead after a steadying opening and bidding was fast at intervals. A little selling cropped up in the final hour.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .4 of a point at 61.8, another peak since Sept. 4, 1937. The market was broad, 999 issues registering. Of these, 603 were advanced, 185 lower and 211 unchanged.

The bond market advanced moderately and on a selective basis today.

Better curb performers included American Cyanamid, Continental Foundry, Raytheon, Louisiana Land, American Light and Universal Pictures. The aggregate here was 780,000 shares, versus 690,000 in the preceding full session.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Cattle: Receipts of 22,000 equalled last Monday's February record high, and were the third highest daily receipts this year. Hog receipts, 10,500 head, were low. Sheep supplies were only 500 head more than on each of two previous Mondays.

Good to choice steers were steady but mostly 10 to 15 cents off, with the top at $17.25. Fat lambs sold at $16.25 to 25 cents higher, the latter paid for 14 loads of Colorados.

Salable hogs, 8,000; total, 10,500; active to all interests, generally steady; good and choice barrows and gilts 140 pounds and up, 14.75 ceiling price; good and choice sows, all weights, $14; clearance complete.

Georgia Solons Asked To Back VFW Proposal

Georgia's congressional delegation is being urged by state posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States to get favorable action from the White House for awards of a Gold Star Purple Heart Medal for the next of kin of those killed in action, or the next of kin of soldiers who die of wounds received in action.

The V. F. W. suggests that a small gold star should appear either on the face of the Purple Heart medal, or be embossed on the ribbon.

The proposal is heartily indorced by Department Commander Mayo C. Buckley, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.
